Portugal Plans To Quit U.N.

U.S. Labels Cuba Red Bridgehead Menacing Hemisphere Security

White Paper Says Island Armed Camp

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. White Paper said Wednesday that Cuba has become a "bridgehead of Sino-Soviet imperialism" posing a serious threat to the security of the American republics and to non-Communist nations everywhere.

The indictment depicting Cuba as a Communist-bloc appendage was set forth in a 32-page booklet presented Dec. 6 to the Inter-American Peace Committee investigating alleged human rights violations and subversive activities by Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Havana regime.

In making the document public, the State Department hoped to enlist support for action against Castro at the foreign ministers meeting of the Organization of American States opening at Punta del Este, Uruguay, Jan. 22.

Havana - Red Ties Cited

The peace committee is to report to the foreign ministers meeting on the results on its inquiry. The State Department plans large-scale distribution of the White Paper throughout Latin America.

Pointing to what it termed increasingly close ties between Havana and the Moscow-Peiping axis, the U.S. document cited evidence of activity it said is aimed at communizing other American countries and said: "As a bridgehead of Sino-Soviet imperialism within the inner defenses of the Western Hemisphere, Cuba under the Castro regime represents a serious threat to the individual and collective security of the American republics and by extension to the security of nations everywhere in the world opposing the spread of that imperialism."

Soviet Arms Into Cuba

U.S. officials said the material in the document covers only the period through August 1961, but that later developments showing a more pronounced Communist trend by Castro also are being brought to OAS attention.

The booklet said Castro has as his prime objective the spreading of "Fidelismo" to the rest of Latin America. It said this is being done through a wide range of techniques ranging from doing-by-example to guerrilla warfare.

The document said between $60 million and $100 million worth of Soviet-bloc arms have poured into Cuba, enabling Castro to support guerrilla operations in other American countries.

It said Cuba has turned into an armed camp with a military establishment totaling 250,000 to 400,000 men, 10 times the pre-Castro size and larger than that of any other Latin-American nation.

Church Bars Castro, Other Cuban Leaders

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro and high officials of his pro-Communist regime in Cuba have been excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church.

The Cuban dictator, raised a Roman Catholic like most Cubans, has, in effect, been ostracized by the Vatican. A professed Marxist, Castro has assailed priests in Cuba as "Fascists" and has expelled many of them.

The action against the Castro regime — apparently effective some months ago—was disclosed Wednesday by Archbishop Dino Staffa, canonist of the Vatican secretariat of state.

Archbishop Staffa said automatic excommunication had been incurred under two sections of canon law—one affecting persons impeding bishops in their work, the other affecting persons using violence against clergymen.

Vatican sources said Castro and officials of his regime may also have been excommunicated for making speeches injurious to Roman Catholic bishops, cardinals and the Pope, or of a nature likely to incite people against the Roman Catholic Church.

Excommunication under this canon law is not automatic and can be imposed by local bishops. Sources here said they did not know if the Cuban episcopate had acted under this law.

Those falling under automatic excommunication are Castro and all who directly or indirectly impeded or helped impede the work of bishops, or caused them injury. They are denied all the sacraments of the Church.

Archbishop Staffa and other Vatican sources said they could not say specifically who was involved besides Castro.

Officials at the Cuban Embassy to the Vatican declined comment, saying they were waiting for a formal announcement from the Vatican.

No Date Set By Salazar For Pullout

Premier Raps Lack Of Support Against India's Goa Seizure

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar smarting from lack of concrete support against India's conquest of Goa, said Wednesday Portugal plans to quit the United Nations —but set no date.

"I do not know whether we shall be the first country to abandon the United Nations, but surely we will be among the first," the gray-haired dictator, 72, told the National Assembly in a broadcast address read for him by the assembly's president.

"Meanwhile, we shall refuse them our collaboration in everything that is not in our direct interest," he added.

He criticized the United States and Britain—Portugal's major allies—and the United Nations for their failure to give Portugal more than oral backing in the enclave war of Dec. 18-19.

"When small nations are defeated it is sad and afflicting," Salazar said, "but the inability of the great to defend the right is incomparably graver."

Resolution Vetoed By Soviet

British and American delegates backed a Security Council resolution calling on India to withdraw, but a Soviet veto killed the resolution.

Salazar said both Britain and the United States sought to dissuade India's Prime Minister Nehru from attacking and "we cannot doubt the force of these requests." He said diplomats of Spain, West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands, Argentina and Brazil also vainly took a hand.

The aging premier received an ovation as he entered the national assembly. He spoke into the microphones in a low voice, his eyes filled with tears: "Due to the emotion of these last days and a throat complaint which prevents me from reading my address personally, I am asking the president of the assembly to do it for me."

There was a hushed silence as the president, Dr. Mario de Figueiredo, began reading.

Azores Pact Not Mentioned

Diplomats had speculated that Salazar might announce a refusal to renew the Azores air base agreement with the United States when it expires this year. But the premier did not touch on that in his 10,000-word speech. The islands form an important way station for North Atlantic Treaty Organization traffic in the Atlantic. Portugal is a member of NATO.

The premier spoke as security officers hunted for the remnants of a 40-man band which launched an abortive revolt against his regime at the Beja military barracks New Year's Day. Sixteen remained at large.

The Army Ministry issued a communique declaring the outlawed Communist party planned the revolt and Communists led it. All Lisbon newspapers blamed Communists for the three-hour uprising.

Rep. Albert Assured House Leader Post As Bolling Bows Out

McCormack In Line For Speaker Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Carl Albert, 53, a quiet spoken Oklahoman, Wednesday was assured of election as the new House Democratic leader when his only challenger, Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., decided to bow out of the contest.

Bolling, 45, a liberal from Kansas City, decided to withdraw rather than put his strength to the test next week at a caucus of the 258 House Democrats. Bolling was running a poor second and faced overwhelming defeat.

In announcing his withdrawal at a news conference, Bolling acknowledged that "I do not have enough support to win."

Bolling said he regarded the outcome as a defeat for liberalism in the sense that "I am a liberal and I feel defeated." He added, however, that he would continue to fight for liberalism in Congress.

Bolling described Albert as "a liberal with reservations." He said the reservations were civil rights and problems raised by the existence of oil and gas industries in Albert's congressional district.

The White House which gave both Albert and Bolling high marks for their work on behalf of President Kennedy's legislative program last year, carefully kept hands off the fight.

Coupled with other developments, Bolling's withdrawal indicated that House Democrats were likely to achieve a harmonious change-over in leadership at the opening of the second session of the 87th Congress on Jan. 10.

The changing of the guard, for the first time in 21 years, was necessitated by the death of 79-year-old Sam Rayburn of Texas. Rep. John W. McCormack, who ranked next behind Rayburn for 21 years, will move up to speaker, the top post held by the majority party. No Democrat is challenging McCormack for that post which pays $45,000 a year—twice as much as other congressmen get—and is one of the most powerful in government.

Albert, a one - time Rhodes Scholar and now Democratic whip, will succeed McCormack as the Democratic floor leader.

Charlie Chaplin, Oona Expecting Their 8th Child

LONDON (AP)—Charlie Chaplin and his fourth wife, Oona, are expecting their eighth child next summer, probably in July.

The 37-year-old Mrs. Chaplin said Wednesday night "yes, it is true," when told friends reported she is to have another baby.

The child will be the tenth for the British-born comedian who will be 73 in April. He has two sons by his second wife, Lita Gray.

Chaplin and his wife, daughter of the late American Nobel Prize-winning playwright Eugene O'Neill, arrived in London Tuesday with three of their daughters. They have since kept to their West End hotel suite.

Chaplin, now living as a country squire on his Swiss estate, gave the news to friends before coming to London.

Manned Orbital Flight Delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Technical trouble with the Atlas booster Wednesday forced a one-week postponement of an attempt to rocket Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn aloft as the first American to orbit the earth.

Informed sources reported the target date for the launching has been shifted from Jan. 16 to Jan. 23. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which has not announced any time for the firing, had no comment on the reported change.

NASA has said only that for planning purposes it will inform news media 10 days before the scheduled day.

Nature of the Atlas trouble was not learned. But it reportedly was minor.

Glenn, 40, reportedly was disappointed by the delay. His mission is intended to carry him three times around the world in 4½ hours at 17,500 miles an hour.

FTC Approves Policy Curbing TV Ad Trickery

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission adopted Wednesday a broad new policy aimed at curbing trickery in television commercials.

In a unanimous opinion the five commissioners rapped Colgate-Palmolive Co., New York City, and Ted Bates & Co. Inc., Colgate's Manhattan advertising agency.

The commission ruled that Colgate and Bates deceived the public with TV commercials involving a faked "sandpaper test" of Palmolive Rapid Shave.

Ordering an end to the commercials, the FTC prohibited the use of fake mock-ups or demonstrations by any Colgate-Palmolive product.

The opinion, expected to set a precedent, reversed a hearing examiner's finding that fake scenes in these commercials were merely "harmless exaggeration of puffing."

In the commercials, a surface described as "tough, dry sandpaper" was covered with the Palmolive product, then shaved clean with a single razor stroke. The purpose was to show that the "super - moisturized" preparation was effective on "a beard as tough as sandpaper."

Colgate and Bates conceded that sandpaper was not used. Instead, a sheet of clear plastic was coated with sand and made to look like extra coarse sandpaper.

The FTC said real sandpaper of the same grain could not be shaved clean even if soaked with the preparation for one hour.

Commissioner Philip Elman wrote the FTC opinion and said Examiner William L. Pack's finding of harmless puffing was "obviously out of place."

The commission held that if viewers had known the truth, the sales pitch might have been ineffective. It said the phony demonstration was unfair, harmful to competition and violated the FTC Act.

U.S., Russ Plan To Open Disarm Talks March 14

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Russia have tentatively agreed to begin 18-nation disarmament talks in Geneva March 14.

The agreement depends on approval by eight unaligned nations which would take part in the talks along with five Western and five Soviet bloc countries.

American officials said the U. S.-Soviet understanding, following nearly a year of wrangling, was reached through diplomatic channels in New York Tuesday.

The talks would be a resumption on an expanded basis of 10-nation general disarmament talks in Geneva which broke off June 27, 1960 when Russia walked out.

The 1960 talks included the United States, Britain, France, Italy, and Canada on the Western side, and Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Romania on the Communist side.

The renewed talks would include these nations plus Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Sweden and the United Arab Republic. They would cover disarmament of conventional weapons and manpower. The United States, Britain and Russia have been negotiating separately since 1958 for a nuclear test ban in talks which are to resume Jan. 16 in Geneva.

Algeria Terrorism Death Toll Now 40

ALGIERS (UPI)—Police and troops, supported by spotting helicopters, battled mobs of rioting Europeans in the port city of Oran Wednesday. A new outbreak of settler-Moslem violence took heavy casualties throughout Algeria.

The nationwide death toll Wednesday night stood at 40, including 11 Europeans. At least 16 persons were killed in Oran.

Six persons were killed and 35 wounded in the city of Constantine, when a terrorist tossed a grenade into a crowd leaving a movie theater. Terrorist killings were reported in Algiers, Bone and other communities.

Traffic On Autobahn Increased 10% In '61

HELMSTEDT, Germany (AP)—Traffic on the autobahn, the lifeline linking Berlin with West Germany, increased by 10 per cent during 1961, German border officials reported Wednesday.

They said a total of about 1,200,000 cars buses and trucks carrying 4.5 million passengers traveled along the 110-mile highway last year.

This figure included about 50,000 Allied soldiers moving between West Germany and the island city of Berlin.

President Orders Activation Of Two New Army Divisions

Release Of Two Guard Units Planned

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy has ordered the immediate activation of two new regular Army divisions—one armored, the other mechanized infantry. Both are expected to be combat-ready by the end of 1962.

This will increase the regular Army from 14 to 16 divisions and will permit the release later this year of two National Guard divisions called to duty Oct. 15. The Pentagon said creation of the new units is not expected to require any increase in draft quotas.

However, guardsmen and reservists called up to help deal with the Berlin crisis won't be heading home very soon.

While White House press secretary Pierre Salinger declined to speculate on the timing, all signs pointed to their being held on activ duty for at least several months.

The announcement Wednesday said the two National Guard divisions, the 32nd of Wisconsin, stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wash.; and the 49th of Texas, training at Ft. Polk, La., "will be released this year as the international situation and the readiness status of the two new divisions permit."

Kennedy's announcement of the activation of the two new Army divisions was described as a direct result of two days of conferences here with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and top defense officials.

The 1st Armored is scheduled to be activated at Ft. Hood, Tex., from a nucleus from combat command "A" now at Ft. Hood, which includes armored and infantry battalions.

The other division, the 5th Infantry, mechanized, is to be activated at Ft. Carson, Colo, from a nucleus of the 2nd Infantry Brigade at Ft. Devens, Mass.; the 57th Field Artillery Group at Ft. Carson and the 5th Medium Tank Battalion at Ft. Irwin, Calif.

The remaining manpower for the two divisions will come from draftees who are completing their eight weeks of basic training. Six-month trainees are not involved.

A Pentagon spokesman said in Washington expanded draft quotas since last August, when partial mobilization commenced, have provided a big enough manpower pool to supplement the experienced cadres upon which the divisions will be built. Draft quotas rose from 13,000 in August to 25,000 in September and have fallen to 15,000 this month.

The divisions will be the first organized under the new Army divisional structure.

The 1st Armored will contain six mechanized battalions and four tank battalions. Its strength will total 15,593.

The 5th Infantry will consist of two infantry battalions, six mechanized battalions and two tank battalions with 16,119 officers and men.

AEC Recruiting Island Workers

HONOLULU (AP) — Construction workers are being recruited by the Atomic Energy Commission for work on Johnston Island, a World War II air base which was used in August 1958 for nuclear testing.

The Honolulu Star-Bulletin said the AEC has been ordered to rehabilitate the island base, 750 miles southwest of Honolulu, "for the possible resumption of nuclear testing in the Pacific."

James C. Corcoran, personnel security reviewer with the AEC, told The Associated Press that the Los Angeles construction firm of Holmes and Narver is hiring personnel for Johnston.

Corcoran said he did not know the purpose of the project.

Socialite Death Probe Pressed

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (UPI) —A mystery intruder who may have been hiding in the house while socialite Doris Bowman was talking by telephone with her mother was sought by police Wednesday in the brutal slaying of the blonde beauty.

"There are 10,000 theories," said Lt. Grover H. Alexander, "but it still appears a stranger committed the murder, probably a man."

Mrs. Bowman, mother of three, was found dead Tuesday in a bathtub of one of the four bathrooms of her $100,000 home in this luxury suburb of Los Angeles and Santa Monica. Her body, with several wounds on the back of the head and chin, was partially submerged in water.

Mrs. Bowman died from "brain injury due to multiple blows to the head," according to Deputy Medical Examiner Kenneth Chapman. Dr. Chapman added there was "evidence of strangulation" but the examination confirmed there was no sexual assault.

Mrs. Bowman's husband, Dr. Frank Potter Bowman, 39, medical director of the Southern California Edison Co., was at his downtown office when notified his wife was dead.

The victim's expensive watch was stopped at 10:16 a.m.—possibly several minutes after the killing, Armstrong said.

U2 Pilot Spends 10 Hours In Tree After Bailing Out

PICAYUNE, Miss (AP) — Charles P. Stratton, a U2 pilot at home in the stratosphere, hung perilously 30 feet above a snake-infested swamp for 10 hours Wednesday after bailing out of his flaming plane miles above.

Rescuers reached him finally by boat that threaded slowly among the black stumps of the swampland.

Stratton, 32, a Detroit, Mich., Air Force captain, was in good condition. His parachute hooked onto a tall cypress tree.

Stratton told newsmen it was hard to tell where the explosion aboard his high-flying "spy" plane occurred because everything happened so fast.

He said he thought the malfunction in the single-seater jet probably started in the electrical system.

Armed airmen, aided by Coast Guard helicopters, ploughed through desolate snake - infested swampland on the Mississippi - Louisiana border to reach the wreckage in a marshy area near Bush, La.

The plane—which crashed in a blazing flash seen some 80 miles away in New Orleans—is similar to the nuclear debris-sampling craft downed over the Soviet Union with Francis Gary Powers aboard in 1960. The Air Force said the plane costs about $840,000.

Stratton was on a return leg of a round-trip flight from Birmingham, Ala., to Laughlin Air Force Base, Del Rio, Tex., where he lives with his wife and two children.

Jackie Goes Water-Skiing As Kennedy, Aides Cruise

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy took Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and top defense aides on a luncheon cruise Wednesday and Mrs. Kenned gave them a display of her water-skiing ability.

The trip aboard the presidential yacht Honey Fitz followed Kennedy's morning conferences with his military advisers.

Under blue and sunny skies, with gentle ocean swells, the party spent an hour and 55 minutes sailing partly in the Atlantic Ocean and then going a few miles up the Inland Waterway.

The highlight of the cruise, though, was Jacqueline Kennedy's five-minute performance on the skis shortly after the yacht sailed out of its dock at Lake Worth into deep ocean water off Palm Beach.

The First Lady made a perfect circling run behind a fast black speedboat as the Honey Fitz cruised slowly nearby.

For a brief time, Mrs. Kennedy traveled along on one ski, displaying fine form while the President and his VIP guests watched from the sunny afterdeck of the yacht.

She had boarded the Honey Fitz in pink slacks and a white sweater, but quickly changed into her water-skiing attire, donning the protective warm long-sleeved black rubber jacket over a blue and white print bathing suit.

Kennedy, wearing sunglasses, a red sweater and slacks, had just about the best cruising day of his Christmas-New Year's holiday here. It was warm and pleasant after a long cold wave.

FTC Approves Policy Curbing TV Ad Trickery

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission adopted Wednesday a broad new policy aimed at curbing trickery in television commercials.

In a unanimous opinion the five commissioners rapped Colgate-Palmolive Co., New York City, and Ted Bates & Co. Inc., Colgate's Manhattan advertising agency.

The commission ruled that Colgate and Bates deceived the public with TV commercials involving a faked "sandpaper test" of Palmolive Rapid Shave.

Ordering an end to the commercials, the FTC prohibited the use of fake mock-ups or demonstrations by any Colgate-Palmolive product.

The opinion, expected to set a precedent, reversed a hearing examiner's finding that fake scenes in these commercials were merely "harmless exaggeration of puffing."

In the commercials, a surface described as "tough, dry sandpaper" was covered with the Palmolive product, then shaved clean with a single razor stroke. The purpose was to show that the "super - moisturized" preparation was effective on "a beard as tough as sandpaper."

Colgate and Bates conceded that sandpaper was not used. Instead, a sheet of clear plastic was coated with sand and made to look like extra coarse sandpaper.

The FTC said real sandpaper of the same grain could not be shaved clean even if soaked with the preparation for one hour.

Commissioner Philip Elman wrote the FTC opinion and said Examiner William L. Pack's finding of harmless puffing was "obviously out of place."

The commission held that if viewers had known the truth, the sales pitch might have been ineffective. It said the phony demonstration was unfair, harmful to competition and violated the FTC Act.

President Orders Activation Of Two New Army Divisions

Release Of Two Guard Units Planned

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy has ordered the immediate activation of two new regular Army divisions—one armored, the other mechanized infantry. Both are expected to be combat-ready by the end of 1962.

This will increase the regular Army from 14 to 16 divisions and will permit the release later this year of two National Guard divisions called to duty Oct. 15. The Pentagon said creation of the new units is not expected to require any increase in draft quotas.

However, guardsmen and reservists called up to help deal with the Berlin crisis won't be heading home very soon.

While White House press secretary Pierre Salinger declined to speculate on the timing, all signs pointed to their being held on activ duty for at least several months.

The announcement Wednesday said the two National Guard divisions, the 32nd of Wisconsin, stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wash.; and the 49th of Texas, training at Ft. Polk, La., "will be released this year as the international situation and the readiness status of the two new divisions permit."

Kennedy's announcement of the activation of the two new Army divisions was described as a direct result of two days of conferences here with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and top defense officials.

The 1st Armored is scheduled to be activated at Ft. Hood, Tex., from a nucleus from combat command "A" now at Ft. Hood, which includes armored and infantry battalions.

The other division, the 5th Infantry, mechanized, is to be activated at Ft. Carson, Colo, from a nucleus of the 2nd Infantry Brigade at Ft. Devens, Mass.; the 57th Field Artillery Group at Ft. Carson and the 5th Medium Tank Battalion at Ft. Irwin, Calif.

The remaining manpower for the two divisions will come from draftees who are completing their eight weeks of basic training. Six-month trainees are not involved.

A Pentagon spokesman said in Washington expanded draft quotas since last August, when partial mobilization commenced, have provided a big enough manpower pool to supplement the experienced cadres upon which the divisions will be built. Draft quotas rose from 13,000 in August to 25,000 in September and have fallen to 15,000 this month.

The divisions will be the first organized under the new Army divisional structure.

The 1st Armored will contain six mechanized battalions and four tank battalions. Its strength will total 15,593.

The 5th Infantry will consist of two infantry battalions, six mechanized battalions and two tank battalions with 16,119 officers and men.

AEC Recruiting Island Workers

HONOLULU (AP) — Construction workers are being recruited by the Atomic Energy Commission for work on Johnston Island, a World War II air base which was used in August 1958 for nuclear testing.

The Honolulu Star-Bulletin said the AEC has been ordered to rehabilitate the island base, 750 miles southwest of Honolulu, "for the possible resumption of nuclear testing in the Pacific."

James C. Corcoran, personnel security reviewer with the AEC, told The Associated Press that the Los Angeles construction firm of Holmes and Narver is hiring personnel for Johnston.

Corcoran said he did not know the purpose of the project.

Traffic On Autobahn Increased 10% In '61

HELMSTEDT, Germany (AP)—Traffic on the autobahn, the lifeline linking Berlin with West Germany, increased by 10 per cent during 1961, German border officials reported Wednesday.

They said a total of about 1,200,000 cars buses and trucks carrying 4.5 million passengers traveled along the 110-mile highway last year.

Manned Orbital Flight Delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Technical trouble with the Atlas booster Wednesday forced a one-week postponement of an attempt to rocket Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn aloft as the first American to orbit the earth.

Informed sources reported the target date for the launching has been shifted from Jan. 16 to Jan. 23. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which has not announced any time for the firing, had no comment on the reported change.

NASA has said only that for planning purposes it will inform news media 10 days before the scheduled day.

Nature of the Atlas trouble was not learned. But it reportedly was minor.

Glenn, 40, reportedly was disappointed by the delay. His mission is intended to carry him three times around the world in 4½ hours at 17,500 miles an hour.

U2 Pilot Spends 10 Hours In Tree After Bailing Out

PICAYUNE, Miss (AP) — Charles P. Stratton, a U2 pilot at home in the stratosphere, hung perilously 30 feet above a snake-infested swamp for 10 hours Wednesday after bailing out of his flaming plane miles above.

Rescuers reached him finally by boat that threaded slowly among the black stumps of the swampland.

Stratton, 32, a Detroit, Mich., Air Force captain, was in good condition. His parachute hooked onto a tall cypress tree.

Stratton told newsmen it was hard to tell where the explosion aboard his high-flying "spy" plane occurred because everything happened so fast.

He said he thought the malfunction in the single-seater jet probably started in the electrical system.

Armed airmen, aided by Coast Guard helicopters, ploughed through desolate snake - infested swampland on the Mississippi - Louisiana border to reach the wreckage in a marshy area near Bush, La.

The plane—which crashed in a blazing flash seen some 80 miles away in New Orleans—is similar to the nuclear debris-sampling craft downed over the Soviet Union with Francis Gary Powers aboard in 1960. The Air Force said the plane costs about $840,000.

Stratton was on a return leg of a round-trip flight from Birmingham, Ala., to Laughlin Air Force Base, Del Rio, Tex., where he lives with his wife and two children.

Jackie Goes Water-Skiing As Kennedy, Aides Cruise

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy took Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and top defense aides on a luncheon cruise Wednesday and Mrs. Kennedy gave them a display of her water-skiing ability.

The trip aboard the presidential yacht Honey Fitz followed Kennedy's morning conferences with his military advisers.

Under blue and sunny skies, with gentle ocean swells, the party spent an hour and 55 minutes sailing partly in the Atlantic Ocean and then going a few miles up the Inland Waterway.

The highlight of the cruise, though, was Jacqueline Kennedy's five-minute performance on the skis shortly after the yacht sailed out of its dock at Lake Worth into deep ocean water off Palm Beach.

The First Lady made a perfect circling run behind a fast black speedboat as the Honey Fitz cruised slowly nearby.

For a brief time, Mrs. Kennedy traveled along on one ski, displaying fine form while the President and his VIP guests watched from the sunny afterdeck of the yacht.

She had boarded the Honey Fitz in pink slacks and a white sweater, but quickly changed into her water-skiing attire, donning the protective warm long-sleeved black rubber jacket over a blue and white print bathing suit.

Kennedy, wearing sunglasses, a red sweater and slacks, had just about the best cruising day of his Christmas-New Year's holiday here. It was warm and pleasant after a long cold wave.

Socialite Death Probe Pressed

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (UPI) —A mystery intruder who may have been hiding in the house while socialite Doris Bowman was talking by telephone with her mother was sought by police Wednesday in the brutal slaying of the blonde beauty.

"There are 10,000 theories," said Lt. Grover H. Alexander, "but it still appears a stranger committed the murder, probably a man."

Mrs. Bowman, mother of three, was found dead Tuesday in a bathtub of one of the four bathrooms of her $100,000 home in this luxury suburb of Los Angeles and Santa Monica. Her body, with several wounds on the back of the head and chin, was partially submerged in water.

Mrs. Bowman died from "brain injury due to multiple blows to the head," according to Deputy Medical Examiner Kenneth Chapman. Dr. Chapman added there was "evidence of strangulation" but the examination confirmed there was no sexual assault.

Mrs. Bowman's husband, Dr. Frank Potter Bowman, 39, medical director of the Southern California Edison Co., was at his downtown office when notified his wife was dead.

The victim's expensive watch was stopped at 10:16 a.m.—possibly several minutes after the killing, Armstrong said.

Board Pulls Switch
State To Buy Hagerstown Electricity For Hospital

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The state agreed Wednesday to buy electricity for the Western Maryland Chronic Disease Hospital at Hagerstown from the City of Hagerstown.

Potomac Edison Co., a private concern which supplied power during the hospital's first five years of operation, protested the switch in business.

The Board of Public Works approved the change at a meeting attended by Mayor Winslow F. Burhans of Hagerstown, H. Dean Miller, manager of the city's electrical utilities, and Paul H. Dullabaun, commercial manager oft he Municipal Electric Light plant. They promised there would be no drop in service and that the cost to the state would be the same, about $11,000 a year.

In other action at Wednesday's meeting, the board:

1. Approved $5,000 from the emergency fund for the first six months' salary of a special assistant attorney general hired last November to help investigate rackets extending beyond the borders of Baltimore City. The post was created after a Baltimore grand jury urged a greater state effort in combatting crime.

2. Approved $75,645 for the purchase of 14 acres of land on Putty Hill Road in Baltimore County for a new $3.5 million armory to house the medical battalion of the Maryland National Guard. The armory and grounds will occupy only five acres fronting Putty Hill Road and the remaining nine acres will be sold.

3. Agreed to pay Washington County $4,849 as the state's share toward a new jail in Hagerstown, although state procedures were not properly followed in obtaining such aid. Albert P. Backhaus, director of public improvements, said a better jail would have been constructed if state advice had been followed.

The state's decision to buy power from the City of Hagerstown drew an immediate protest from officials of the Potomac Edison Co. They had appeared before the board last month to urge that the contract not be awarded to the competing city firm.

Backhaus recommended that the state give its business to the city in order to help the local government.

L. V. Milton, district manager of the private firm, said following Wednesday's action: "We are fighting each other most of the time pretty cleanly, but I think when the state pays the taxpayers' money to have its director (Backhaus) fight the city's case, that's carrying it too far."

Attorneys Will Ask New Trial For Rees In Va.

SPOTSYLVANIA, Va. (AP) — Attorneys for jazz musician Melvin Davis Rees Jr. will ask Spotsylvania County Circuit Court Judge John D. Butzner Jr. Thursday to grant the convicted Jackson family killer a new trial.

Rees, 32, was condemned to die for the death of Carroll V. Jackson Jr., a Louisa County truck driver and farmer.

A U.S. District Court jury in Baltimore convicted him of the kidnap slaying of two other members of the family which disappeared Jan. 11, 1959. He was sentenced to life imprisonment on the federal conviction.

Defense attorneys Alfred W. Garnet and Joseph L. Savage Jr. will base their appeal from the local court conviction on what they contend were numerous errors in the two-week trial last September. They also contend the evidence did not support the verdict.

If Rees should win an acquittal in Jackson's death, he still faces a murder charge in the death of the Jacksons youngest daughter, Janet, 1½. Her body was found along with her father's in an abandoned sawmill site about two months after the family disappeared.

The bodies of Mrs. Jackson, 27, and the Jackson's older daughter, Susan, 5, were found in a shallow grave near Gambrills, Md.

The jury fixed the penalty at death, but Rees has not been sentenced.

Lines Drawn For Clash Over State Ship Models

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Miss Louise Magruder, an Annapolis genealogist who has been to war with state officials before, may be heading for another skirmish—a naval engagement this time.

The Board of Public Works was told Wednesday that Miss Magruder has the state's models of The Ark and The Dove, the two ships Maryland settlers arrived in, and is "reluctant" to return them to the state library until she is reimbursed $75 for repairs she had made.

Nelson J. Molter, state librarian, said the restoration work was not authorized and apparently occurred while the models were on loan to the Colonial Dames of America for an historic exhibition held nearly a year ago.

Gov. Tawes, who heads the Board of Public Works, directed that the matter be referred to the attorney general.

Miss Magruder could not be reached for comment.

Three years ago she was the central figure in a running battle with the governor and the Board of Public Works over transfer of the State Land Office from the Hall of Records Building to a new state office building.

Miss Magruder, who used the records to research family backgrounds, contended the valuable documents were jeopardized by being placed in a non-fireproof structures. But she lost the legal fight which she carried through the Maryland Court of Appeals.

New Cold Wave Chills Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A third record-setting cold wave since Christmas chilled Florida Wednesday, but apparently didn't discourage what Gov. Farris Bryant called a soaring influx of tourists.

Temperatures that dipped as low as 27 near Fort Lauderdale left frost on the state's vegetable crops and ice on standing water as far south as the Miami area.

Little crop damage was reported. It was too dry to form heavy frost.

In Tallahassee, Bryant belittled reports that tourists were fleeing Florida because of the weather.

"There is no truth whatsoever to stories that visitors are leaving Florida because of the refreshing nip that currently mingles with our warm sunshine," he said.

"In fact, reports from the tourist industry and from communities in every area of the state indicate that more of our Northern friends than ever before are fleeing to Florida from snow, ice and sleet."

The U.S. report also said:

—At least 300 Soviet and Czechoslovak military advisers and technicians have come to Cuba.

—About 500 technical advisers on nonmilitary matters have arrived from the Communist bloc.

—Whereas Cuba before Castro channeled only some two per cent of its total foreign trade to the Soviet bloc, now for political — not economic reasons—bloc share of Cuban foreign trade is 80 per cent.

—While the Castro regime promised an agrarian reform to break up large landholdings, landholding in Cuba is now actually more consolidated than ever before. Now the government owns the land.

—The government, having destroyed free labor unions, now controls all labor policy and the wage and conditions of employment in Cuba.

—The government controls all schools and newspapers, forcing them to hew to the Communist line.

A-Blast Detection Center Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plans were unveiled Wednesday for establishing what is described as the world's most modern data analysis center. It will develop techniques for reliable detection of nuclear explosions.

United Electrodynamics, a Pasadena, Calif., scientific firm, said it would design, install and operate the center for the government, probably starting operations June 1.

The center, to be located in this area, will evaluate information supplied by a vast network of fixed and mobile seismic recording stations.

It will be part of Project Vela, which is being directed by the Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency.

Frank B. Coker, vice president in charge of the United Earth Sciences, Division of United Electrodynamics, said the contract with the government, initially $1.5 million, is expected to reach about $3 million for the first 21 months of operations.

Pa. Traffic Record In '61 Nation's Best

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania probably posted the best highway record in the nation during 1961 with fewer people killed in the state than in any year since World War II, Gov. David L. Lawrence said Wednesday.

He told his weekly news conference that preliminary reports show 1,479 persons were killed in highway accidents last year

That was 130 under 1960 and 59 fewer than the previous peacetime record low year of 1954.

O. D. Shipley, highway safety commissioner, told the news conference the 1961 Pennsylvania traffice death rate probably will range from 3.3 to 3.4 deaths per hundred million miles.

The national rate is about 5.5 per hundred million.

Katanga Vote On Congo Unity Pact Delayed

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI)—The Katanga National Assembly met Wednesday night to vote on the agreement that would end the province's secession from the Congo. The deputies walked out after seven minutes without taking any action.

Interior Minister Godefroit Munogo told newsmen late that the assembly would meet again Thursday to consider the accord signed by Katanga President Moise Tshombe and Central Congolese Premier Cryille Adoula

Only 19 deputies were presen for the scheduled vote at 5 p.m. They adjourned seven minutes later after complaining about their working conditions and the absence of other deputies and top government officials.

Tshombe, Munongo and assembly President Charles Mutaka Wa-Dilomba arrived 90 minutes late and found the hall empty. They said they were "indignant" to find that the deputies had dispersed.

Wa-Dilomba sharply criticized minor assembly officials for taking it upon themselves to open the session in his absence. He insisted that he alone had the right to convene the assembly—and that closing of the session in his absence also was illegal.

Savings-Loan Firm Receiver Appointed

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—A receiver to take over affairs of the First Continental Savings & Loan Association, Chevy Chase, was appointed Wednesday night by Montgomery County Circuit Court Judge Kathryn Lawlor Shook.

She named as receiver John E. McKeever, a Silver Spring real estate man. The action was sought by the state in a late afternoon court hearing.

Cop Suspended For Not Reporting Lottery Wife Won

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A policeman was given a two-day suspension Wednesday for not reporting a lottery, run on behalf of a volunteer fire company, in which his wife won the $1,000 first prize.

Police Chief William B. Hershner said the suspension of 33-year-old Calvin Duncan was mandatory because of a standing rule requiring everyone in the department to report to his superiors any lotteries or other forms of gambling.

Easton, Md., Target Of Integrationists

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Civic Interest Group (CIG) of Baltimore announced Wednesday that demonstrations against racial segregation will be held in Easton this weekend.

A CIG spokesman said a small, specially selected group will be used for the demonstration "which is designed to make the community of Easton aware of the discrimination that exists there."

He said, "It is hoped that the citizens of Easton will respond by calling on their responsible officials to rectify the situation."

He said a rally will be held at p. m. at the Union Baptist Church in Easton. The demonstrators will leave from the Grace Presbyterian Church in Baltimore, he said.

Katanga Vote On Congo Unity Pact Delayed

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI)—The Katanga National Assembly met Wednesday night to vote on the agreement that would end the province's secession from the Congo. The deputies walked out after seven minutes without taking any action.

Interior Minister Godefroit Munongo told newsmen late that the assembly would meet again Thursday to consider the accord signed by Katanga President Moise Tshombe and Central Congolese Premier Cryille Adoula.

Only 19 deputies were present for the scheduled vote at 5 p.m. They adjourned seven minutes later after complaining about their working conditions and the absence of other deputies and top government officials.

Tshombe, Munongo and assembly President Charles Mutaka Wa-Dilomba arrived 90 minutes late and found the hall empty. They said they were "indignant" to find that the deputies had dispersed.

Wa-Dilomba sharply criticized minor assembly officials for taking it upon themselves to open the session in his absence. He insisted that he alone had the right to convene the assembly—and that closing of the session in his absence also was illegal.

Savings-Loan Firm Receiver Appointed

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—A receiver to take over affairs of the First Continental Savings & Loan Association, Chevy Chase, was appointed Wednesday night by Montgomery County Circuit Court Judge Kathryn Lawlor Shook.

She named as receiver John E. McKeever, a Silver Spring real estate man. The action was sought by the state in a late afternoon court hearing.

Cop Suspended For Not Reporting Lottery Wife Won

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A policeman was given a two-day suspension Wednesday for not reporting a lottery, run on behalf of a volunteer fire company, in which his wife won the $1,000 first prize.

Police Chief William B. Hershner said the suspension of 33-year-old Calvin Duncan was mandatory because of a standing rule requiring everyone in the department to report to his superiors any lotteries or other forms of gambling.

Easton, Md., Target Of Integrationists

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Civic Interest Group (CIG) of Baltimore announced Wednesday that demonstrations against racial segregation will be held in Easton this weekend.

A CIG spokesman said a small, specially selected group will be used for the demonstration "which is designed to make the community of Easton aware of the discrimination that exists there."

He said, "It is hoped that the citizens of Easton will respond by calling on their responsible officials to rectify the situation."

He said a rally will be held at p. m. at the Union Baptist Church in Easton. The demonstrators will leave from the Grace Presbyterian Church in Baltimore, he said.

ADA Criticizes Some Aspects Of JFK Record

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans for Democratic Action Tuesday criticized President Kennedy's record in certain areas and called on him to "show a dynamic, crusading leadership" to meet the needs of 1962.

The New Deal-like organization proposed a six-point legislative program that included a tax cut for low income taxpayers. It also called for a faster pace on economic and social programs to counteract what it termed the "sudden and dangerous growth of the hysterical right."

The program outlined by ADA spokesmen at a news conference included health benefits for the aged under Social Security, broader civil rights legislation, sweeping trade proposals, federal aid for school construction and teachers' salaries, tax reforms and a "massive attack," on unemployment.

"The President," the group said in a statement, "should exploit his unprecedented public support by showing a dynamic, crusading leadership that will meet America's needs and the challenge of the world in 1962."

To spur economic growth and reduce unemployment, the ADA proposed a "straight forward tax cut for the lower income brackets."

It also urged increased federal tax cut spending for public works as an additional pump - priming technique.

Dr. Paul Seabury, chairman of ADA's national executive committee, was critical of the Kennedy administration's approach to civil rights. "I am concerned with the lack of vigor in this area," he said.

He called for an "all-out assault upon racial segregation and discrimination" by passage of legislation requiring every school district to submit a plan providing for first-step compliance with the Supreme Court desegregation order b, 1963.

Seabury said this should be backed up by granting the attorney general authority to force compliance with civil rights orders.

'Big Jim' Farley Predicts Good Year For JFK

CHICAGO (UPI) — James A. Farley, long-time Democratic leader and former party national chairman, Tuesday predicted a good new year for both the Kennedy administration and the economy.

Of President Kennedy's record in 1961, Farley said "in the overall picture, I think he's done very well."

Farley told a news conference he thought Kennedy would have a "better chance with Congress" in 1962. In the coming congressional elections, he said, "I think the President will be successful in holding a satisfactory majority in both the House and Senate."

Farley, current board chairman of Coca-Cola Export Corp., also said "I think 1962 is going to be an exceptionally good year" for the economy. He said among the factors contributing to a healthy business climate would be "less talk of nuclear war."

The 73-year-old Democrat, describing himself as a "middle of the roader," said "I'll always be in politics." But he left the question open about his ambitions to seek his party's senatorial nomination in New York state. "I don't know whether they (the party) would be willing. I'm not a young chicken," he said.

On other matters, Farley, here to address the Rotary Club of Chicago, said:

—Such right-wing organizations as the John Birch Society hurt the Republican party and not the Democrats.

—Postal rates should be raised an additional one cent. He was a former U.S. postmaster general.

—There is a great need for a "strong, vigilant, minority party."

—Democratic differences over segregation are "not sufficient to affect the party structure or strength."

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Streeters welcomed the new year of stock market trading Tuesday with optimism laced with caution.

They were generally bullish about the first part of the year but expressed doubts about the later months.

There was considerable disappointment that a vigorous year-end rally failed to get under way late in December.

Roger E. Spear, president of the Investment Advisory Service, Spear & Staff, Inc., said hard-headed thinking - and increased caution should be the investment watchwords for 1962.

In a forecast basically bullish for the first six to nine months, Spear predicted the Dow Jones industrial average would probably not fall below 690-700 and, barring unforeseen adverse developments, would hit a high in the 780-800 area, some 10 per cent above present levels.

"The year 1962 holds encouragement for the first half but storm warnings may rise at midyear," Spear said. "This could be because of economic factors or it could be due to increased public speculation occasioned by the high market levels we anticipate."

Another advisory service, Standard & Poor's Corp., said the market entered the new year with prospects pointing to record highs in business, profits and dividends, all of which it believed could lead to still higher share prices.

Nevertheless, it added, it foresees a more labored advance with wider corrective swings than in 1961 and thinks that investment programs should be tempered with caution.

"Actually," Standard & Poor's said, "the business news could hardly be better. Successive record highs are being established by most economic indicators and those that were late in coming to life are showing improvement. But it should also be recognized that the market has already done considerable discounting with few bargains available."

Fire Deaths In 1961 Highest In 7 Years

BOSTON (UPI)—Fire deaths in the United States during 1961 totaled 11,700—the highest in seven years, it was reported Tuesday.

The National Fire Protection Association, a non-profit fire safety organization, said property loss from fire hit a record high of $1.61 billion.

Of the total dead, 6,100 including 1,800 children perished in home fires. The 11,700 total was 350 more than in 1960.

The two largest fatal building fires were the San Francisco hotel fire of Jan. 6 which took 20 lives, and the Hartford, Conn., hospital fire of Dec. 8 in which 16 died.

If husbands are interested they may be invited to attend and hear the discussion.

East Side To Start Workshop

Mrs. Thomas Buser, president, and Mrs. Ella Simons, treasurer, assumed their duties at the meeting of the East Side Homemakers Club Tuesday, at which time an office of assistant secretary, and a community service chairmanship were created.

Members also voted to start a sewing workshop. It is to be held every Thursday from 1:30 until 4 p. m. at the homes of various members. It will begin January 11 at the home of Mrs. Herman Curry, 17 Weber Street, with clothing. Each is to bring her own pattern.

Held at Melvin Methodist Church, the meeting opened with the group saying the Lord's Prayer and singing "America." Mrs. James Gall was appointed assistant secretary. She also was named chairman of the community service program. Mrs. Curry will continue as vice president and Mrs. Stanley Morris as secretary for another year.

The group voted to send flowers to a member who is sick for any length of time, or hospitalized. Mrs. Buser extended a welcome to the members. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Daniel Klavuhn and Mrs. Gall. The latter also read the consttitution and by-laws. Giving the sunshine report, Mrs. Earl Smith announced she had sent a miniature flower garden to Mrs. Debrah Burkett, who is in Memorial Hospital with a broken hip and arm.

Chairmen for 1962 were announced. They are Mrs. Curry, Mrs. Raymond Hinkle, clothing; Mrs. William Flora, family life; Mrs. Clarence Stewart, Mrs. Gall, food and nutrition; Mrs. Carl Smith, health and safety; Mrs. Hinkle, Mrs. Curry, home furnishing; Mrs. Klavuhn, home management; Mrs. Gall, Mrs. Simons, art; Mrs. Morris, home and yard beautification; Mrs. Smith, international relations; Mrs. Buser, Mrs. William Flora, music; Mrs. Clair Flora, reading; Mrs. Stewart; recreation and nature; Mrs. Gall, citizenship and civil defense; Mrs. Nettie Dicken, membership; Mrs. Curry, parliamentarian; Mrs. Buser, publicity; Mrs. Lawrence Miller, RWSC and Mrs. Earl Smith, sunshine. The fair and exhibits chairman is to be appointed later.

A representative from the social security office will be guest speaker at the next meeting, which will be February 6 at the church. Mrs. Buser and Mrs. Dicken will be hostesses.

The meeting closed with the group singing, "Auld Lang Syne". Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hinkle and Mrs. Curry.

A program was held under the direction of Mrs. Leo Keyser. It included Scripture reading and prayer. Secret sisters were revealed and new ones accepted. A covered dish buffet supper was served. Eleven members attended.

Kennel Club Names Dog, Breeder Of Year

Announcement of the "Dog of the Year" and "Breeder of the Year" was made by Clifton Jeffries, president at the annual Christmas party of the Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club, held recently at the National Guard Armory, Frostburg.

The decision resulted in a tie between the Shetland Sheepdog, (toy Collie) and Toy Manchester Terrier. Since both dogs were homebred the "Breeder of the Year" also resulted in a tie between Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ware and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith.

Members decided to discontinue the January and February meetings because of weather in Frostburg. The next meeting will be March 15.

The Toy Manchester, Vey Ares Zana, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ware. Members of the "Old Timers Club," Mr. and Mrs. Ware have been breeding and showing dogs for more than 20 years. Their first home bred champion Vey Ares Miss Bambi completed her championship in 1952. Since then the Wares have finished a champion on the average of one each year, except for two years when illness curtailed their showing activities. There are seven home-bred champions in their kennel on the Baltimore Pike. Zana is the daughter of champion Vey Ares Be Rockie and champion Vey Ares Little Wings; with five generations of champions in her background.

Although collies were the first love of the Smiths and some bred by them at their Georges Creek Kennel reached the show ring, none were shown by the Smiths. In 1957 a Shetland Sheepdog was purchased from the Pages Hill Kennel, North Wales, Pa. Her show career began in October 1959 and in June 1960 she completed her championship. Champion Isolde of Pages Hill Sally has produced top quality pups of which a number were retained by the Smiths. Sugar Georges Creek Spun Gold, who tied with Zana, is the daughter of champion Nanja Gold Braid and champion Isolde O'Pages Hill, both closely linebred from the long line of Pages Hill champions, including the famous champion Magnet of Pages Hill and champion Timberidge Temptation. She was born January 27, 1961.

Zana and Sugar each have four points toward their AKC championship and both owners hope to finish them in the near future.

Whether this type of club competition will be continued will be decided at a future meeting and a committee appointed to set up appropriate standards. The purpose of the project is to encourage interest in improving the various breeds.

The party was in the form of a buffet supper. Mrs. Phillip Carolan was chairman of the committee of arrangements, which included Mrs. Charles B. Hoelzel and Mrs. Ralph O. Barrick. The entertainment program consisted of dance numbers by Mary Joe McKenzie, Jan Carolan and Doris Jean Zapf. Twenty members were present.

The chapter voted to grant Mrs. Margaret Athey a leave of absence so that she could join her husband in New Jersey.

The cultural program for the evening was entitled "Your Wedding and Reception." The topic was chosen since some of the members received engagement rings for Christmas.

Plans were formulated for the next meeting to be held January 20 at the home of Miss Linda Wiebrecht, 155 Mt. Pleasant Street, Frostburg.

Other members present were Miss Sherry Chaney, Miss Kay Beeman, Miss Morgan, Miss Janet Nelson and Miss Wiebrecht.

The program will contain pertinent information to bring members up to date on the changes that have been made in this field. If husbands are interested they may be invited to attend and hear the discussion.

East Side To Start Workshop

Mrs. Thomas Buser, president, and Mrs. Ella Simons, treasurer, assumed their duties at the meeting of the East Side Homemakers Club Tuesday, at which time an office of assistant secretary, and a community service chairmanship were created.

Members also voted to start a sewing workshop. It is to be held every Thursday from 1:30 until 4 p. m. at the homes of various members. It will begin January 11 at the home of Mrs. Herman Curry, 17 Weber Street, with clothing. Each is to bring her own pattern.

Held at Melvin Methodist Church, the meeting opened with the group saying the Lord's Prayer and singing "America." Mrs. James Gall was appointed assistant secretary. She also was named chairman of the community service program. Mrs. Curry will continue as vice president and Mrs. Stanley Morris as secretary for another year.

The group voted to send flowers to a member who is sick for any length of time, or hospitalized. Mrs. Buser extended a welcome to the members. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Daniel Klavuhn and Mrs. Gall. The latter also read the consttitution and by-laws. Giving the sunshine report, Mrs. Earl Smith announced she had sent a miniature flower garden to Mrs. Debrah Burkett, who is in Memorial Hospital with a broken hip and arm.

Chairmen for 1962 were announced. They are Mrs. Curry, Mrs. Raymond Hinkle, clothing; Mrs. William Flora, family life; Mrs. Clarence Stewart, Mrs. Gall, food and nutrition; Mrs. Carl Smith, health and safety; Mrs. Hinkle, Mrs. Curry, home furnishing; Mrs. Klavuhn, home management; Mrs. Gall, Mrs. Simons, art; Mrs. Morris, home and yard beautification; Mrs. Smith, international relations; Mrs. Buser, Mrs. William Flora, music; Mrs. Clair Flora, reading; Mrs. Stewart; recreation and nature; Mrs. Gall, citizenship and civil defense; Mrs. Nettie Dicken, membership; Mrs. Curry, parliamentarian; Mrs. Buser, publicity; Mrs. Lawrence Miller, RWSC and Mrs. Earl Smith, sunshine. The fair and exhibits chairman is to be appointed later.

A representative from the social security office will be guest speaker at the next meeting, which will be February 6 at the church. Mrs. Buser and Mrs. Dicken will be hostesses.

The meeting closed with the group singing, "Auld Lang Syne". Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hinkle and Mrs. Curry.

Kennel Club Names Dog, Breeder Of Year

Announcement of the "Dog of the Year" and "Breeder of the Year" was made by Clifton Jeffries, president at the annual Christmas party of the Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Club, held recently at the National Guard Armory, Frostburg.

The decision resulted in a tie between the Shetland Sheepdog, (toy Collie) and Toy Manchester Terrier. Since both dogs were homebred the "Breeder of the Year" also resulted in a tie between Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ware and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith.

Members decided to discontinue the January and February meetings because of weather in Frostburg. The next meeting will be March 15.

The Toy Manchester, Vey Ares Zana, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ware. Members of the "Old Timers Club," Mr. and Mrs. Ware have been breeding and showing dogs for more than 20 years. Their first home bred champion Vey Ares Miss Bambi completed her championship in 1952. Since then the Wares have finished a champion on the average of one each year, except for two years when illness curtailed their showing activities. There are seven home-bred champions in their kennel on the Baltimore Pike. Zana is the daughter of champion Vey Ares Be Rockie and champion Vey Ares Little Wings; with five generations of champions in her background.

Although collies were the first love of the Smiths and some bred by them at their Georges Creek Kennel reached the show ring, none were shown by the Smiths. In 1957 a Shetland Sheepdog was purchased from the Pages Hill Kennel, North Wales, Pa. Her show career began in October 1959 and in June 1960 she completed her championship. Canine Mental Case Doomed After Relapse

LONDON (UPI)—Butch, a six-year-old boxer dog who flunked 18 months of psychiatric treatment, must die for attacking a black poodle named Pom Pom and biting its mistress.

His owner, Mrs. Constance Gamble, 42, who feels that her love for Butch may have sealed his doom, vowed to "fight to the last for his life."

Butch got into the news early in 1960 when other owners protested that the normally well-behaved boxer went berserk whenever he saw another dog.

It wasn't his fault, Mrs. Gamble said. He was attacked by a big neighborhood bully dog when just a puppy and when he attained maturity he took his revenge on any dog he saw.

She checked with the Canine Defense League on the possibility of psychiatric treatment and a spokesman announced: "We shall make a fight for the dog's life. He can be cured."

Butch was sent to the league's training center at Hampton where he was placed in the company of other dogs and made to obey orders not to attack them.

Butch developed into a model patient and dog psychiatrists said in time he would be cured. But the long separation—18 months—was too much for Mrs. Gamble and she petitioned a court for his release.

All seemed well, but police superintendent Colin Evans told a court in Steyning Monday that Butch had attacked Pom Pom on the beach at Shoreham.

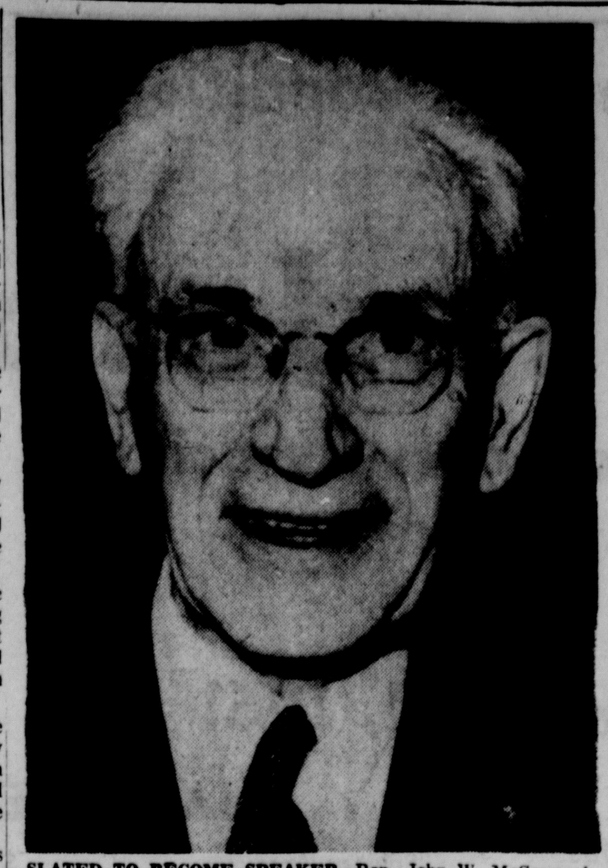

He added that Butch caused "substantial injuries" to the poodle which he seized by the neck. He also bit its owner, Mrs. Olive Sutch, on the foot when she fell to the ground while struggling to separate the dogs.

"We have our duty to the public," Sir Arthur Howard said in pronouncing sentence. "Most of us here own dogs and love dogs and we do not make orders for destruction lightly."

Scores Drown

BOMBAY (UPI) — Unofficial estimates said Tuesday 140 persons died Monday when a coastal steamer capsized and sank in the Savitri River 100 miles south of Bombay. Authorities said the boat was carrying 180 persons although its capacity was only 50.

San Juan Capistrano, 30 miles from San Luis Rey, is famous for the tradition that swallows arrive on St. Joseph's Day, March 19, and depart on St. John's Day, Oct. 23.

SLATED TO BECOME SPEAKER—Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., poses in his Washington office yesterday. McCormack is slated to become speaker of the House of Representatives when Congress reconvenes next week. He would succeed Sam Rayburn, who died in November. (AP Photofax)

Light Beam Communication System Demonstrated

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The first public demonstration of a person talking on a light beam was given here Tuesday by Walter Sparling, president of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Sparling disclosed that a "gaseous optica maser" designed by the Bell Laboratories has opened the way for development of a practical television - telephone.

"Can you hear me talking now?...The possibilities of this development are fantastic..." Sparling said from the Carter Hotel here to a group of newsmen and Ohio Bell executives.

The simple - appearing device uses infra-red beams to transmit telephone messages and television impulses without wires.

Sparling said masers open the way for creation of a billion talking circuits and 10 million television channels.

The new communications system would have its first practical use sending messages to and from space satellites, Sparling said.

Eventually, he said, the Bell System will install a system of pipes which will be used to transmit the infra-red messages—without wiring — across the country. Mirrors will be used to send light rays around corners.

Sparling said he didn't know when the maser's possibilities would begin serving the general public, but said Cleveland would receive electronic dialing service in 1966.

This means that telephone subscribers here would be able to perform such tricks as transferring calls to a neighbor's home when they are visiting there, using extensions as an inter-communications system, or dialing frequently called numbers with only two numerals.

Cleveland, Sparling said, will be the third major city to receive this service. First in line are New York and Washington.

The demonstration Tuesday was the first appearance of a maser outside of the Bell Laboratories, Sparling said.

Powerful Crowd

LONDON (UPI) — British Railways launched an inquiry Tuesday into why so many people were jammed into a three - car diesel commuter train Monday night that three steel door frames were twisted out of shape.

According to an ancient superstition, if it rains on St. Swithin's Day, it will continue to rain for 40 days.

Canine Mental Case Doomed After Relapse

LONDON (UPI)—Butch, a six-year-old boxer dog who flunked 18 months of psychiatric treatment, must die for attacking a black poodle named Pom Pom and biting its mistress.

His owner, Mrs. Constance Gamble, 42, who feels that her love for Butch may have sealed his doom, vowed to "fight to the last for his life."

Butch got into the news early in 1960 when other owners protested that the normally well-behaved boxer went berserk whenever he saw another dog.

It wasn't his fault, Mrs. Gamble said. He was attacked by a big neighborhood bully dog when just a puppy and when he attained maturity he took his revenge on any dog he saw.

She checked with the Canine Defense League on the possibility of psychiatric treatment and a spokesman announced: "We shall make a fight for the dog's life. He can be cured."

Butch was sent to the league's training center at Hampton where he was placed in the company of other dogs and made to obey orders not to attack them.

Butch developed into a model patient and dog psychiatrists said in time he would be cured. But the long separation—18 months—was too much for Mrs. Gamble and she petitioned a court for his release.

All seemed well, but police superintendent Colin Evans told a court in Steyning Monday that Butch had attacked Pom Pom on the beach at Shoreham.

He added that Butch caused "substantial injuries" to the poodle which he seized by the neck. He also bit its owner, Mrs. Olive Sutch, on the foot when she fell to the ground while struggling to separate the dogs.

"We have our duty to the public," Sir Arthur Howard said in pronouncing sentence. "Most of us here own dogs and love dogs and we do not make orders for destruction lightly."

Scores Drown

BOMBAY (UPI) — Unofficial estimates said Tuesday 140 persons died Monday when a coastal steamer capsized and sank in the Savitri River 100 miles south of Bombay. Authorities said the boat was carrying 180 persons although its capacity was only 50.

San Juan Capistrano, 30 miles from San Luis Rey, is famous for the tradition that swallows arrive on St. Joseph's Day, March 19, and depart on St. John's Day, Oct. 23.

SLATED TO BECOME SPEAKER—Rep. John W. McCormack, D-Mass., poses in his Washington office yesterday. McCormack is slated to become speaker of the House of Representatives when Congress reconvenes next week. He would succeed Sam Rayburn, who died in November. (AP Photofax)

Light Beam Communication System Demonstrated

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The first public demonstration of a person talking on a light beam was given here Tuesday by Walter Sparling, president of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Sparling disclosed that a "gaseous optica maser" designed by the Bell Laboratories has opened the way for development of a practical television - telephone.

"Can you hear me talking now?...The possibilities of this development are fantastic..." Sparling said from the Carter Hotel here to a group of newsmen and Ohio Bell executives.

The simple - appearing device uses infra-red beams to transmit telephone messages and television impulses without wires.

Sparling said masers open the way for creation of a billion talking circuits and 10 million television channels.

The new communications system would have its first practical use sending messages to and from space satellites, Sparling said.

Eventually, he said, the Bell System will install a system of pipes which will be used to transmit the infra-red messages—without wiring — across the country. Mirrors will be used to send light rays around corners.

Sparling said he didn't know when the maser's possibilities would begin serving the general public, but said Cleveland would receive electronic dialing service in 1966.

This means that telephone subscribers here would be able to perform such tricks as transferring calls to a neighbor's home when they are visiting there, using extensions as an inter-communications system, or dialing frequently called numbers with only two numerals.

Cleveland, Sparling said, will be the third major city to receive this service. First in line are New York and Washington.

The demonstration Tuesday was the first appearance of a maser outside of the Bell Laboratories, Sparling said.

Powerful Crowd

LONDON (UPI) — British Railways launched an inquiry Tuesday into why so many people were jammed into a three - car diesel commuter train Monday night that three steel door frames were twisted out of shape.

According to an ancient superstition, if it rains on St. Swithin's Day, it will continue to rain for 40 days.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

RIO ABAJO, Puerto Rico (UPI)—Living eight to a tent with flying cockroaches and hiking knee-high in mud tests the physical stamina of trainees at the Peace Corps camp here.

An almost bigger part, testing of mind and psyche, comes at night during bull sessions—and during daily seminars under skies that are by turn sunny and cloudy.

Bill Haddad, associate director of the Peace Corps, put it this way:

"We aim not so much to build muscles as we do to throw the trainees back on their heels, giving them situations they never before encountered and teaching them to draw on inner resources that they didn't realize they had.

"When they have that 20-foot free fall while descending on a rope, we're not so much teaching mountain climbing as we are teaching them to conquer fear, giving them the stamina to cope with strange situations."

Then there's the cultural conditioning for the country to which the trainees are assigned.

Barbara Jean Payne, 22, a graduate of Wheaton College, told of the conditioning for women. She has been assigned to teach chemistry at Women's College in West Pakistan.

"In Pakistan," she said, "a woman must give dirty looks and show indignation if a male so much as brushes her elbow. We practiced that during training.

"And we learned not to show too much curiosity or surprise over the native garb—a bourka—our students will be wearing to class."

Miss Payne, a native of Evanston, Ill., said a bourka is a tent-like cloak the West Pakistan females wear. The cloak covers the face and has just tiny slits for the women to see through.

At the bull sessions, the Peace Corps trainees also practice the language of the land to which assigned. By the time they leave this camp they at least feel at home with the language.

They also are taught here how to help families with far less material things than the typical American family has.

They go out to the Puerto Rican mountain villages where families have no running water and a pa' income.

They help for days at a time to carry water from a well, to burp babies who have no diaper service, and to do other seemingly primitive things the families do every day to survive.

There's also a self-help and help others aspect to training. As part of the self-help, recent trainees built a bridge over a creek. When another group needed a classroom to shelter from the rain, corpsmen and women went out into the wood felled trees and from the lumber built a classroom.

The help others facet was demonstrated when corpsmen and women met with the poverty-strapped families from a neighboring mountain village, asking the villagers what they needed most.

The villagers said they need a nursery school. The corpsmen and women soon will build it.

New York is the most populous of the states while Alaska is the least populous.

Alleged Commuter Bandit Indicted

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI)—A Florida man who allegedly commuted to New Jersey by air to rob the same bank three times was indicted by a Morris County grand jury Tuesday on three charges of armed robbery.

The suspect, Harold Ray Olsson, 32, of Ft. Lauderdale, was charged with robbing the Randolph Township branch of the National State Bak of Dover on June 29, Sept. 13 and Oct. 31, 1961. The total loot came to $34,041 of which $5,300 was recovered.

Olsson was arrested five hours after the third holdup minutes after he was seen by Col. Joseph D. Rutter, superintendent of state police, fleeing by car on a Hunterdon County road. Rutter directed other police cars to the scene and aided in the capture.

Schools Have Shortage Of 127,200 Classrooms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation suffers from a shortage of 127,200 public school classrooms, the U. S. Office of Education reported today.

It said its eighth annual survey indicated that 60,200 classrooms were needed to relieve overcrowding and 67,000 more would be required to replace unsatisfactory quarters.

The office said the classroom shortage as reported by the 50 states and the District of Columbia was reduced by 15,300 from the fall of 1960 to the fall of 1961.

Classroom construction in the 1960-61 year reached a new high of 72,000 rooms but is expected to decline this year, it said.

Public school enrollment, meantime, reached a new top of 37.5 million when schools opened last September, an increase of 1.2 million over the preceding year. Enrollment will climb by more than one million again this fall, the agency said.

The administration plans to push again this year President Kennedy's program of aid for public grade and high schools. It lost out in Congress last year in the dispute over parochial schools.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., of the House Education and Labor Committee, already has opened a drive to revive a federal college aid bill. It was pigeonholed last summer during the fight over the President's aid program.

Powell wrote rules committee Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., last week that the bill to provide $1.8 billion in construction and scholarship help for colleges was gravely needed.

In its report, the Office of Education said that 18,700 classrooms were abandoned during the last school year because of population shifts, consolidation of school districts and obsolescent buildings.

It estimated that two million children in public elementary and high schools were housed in unsatisfactory facilities. Another 1,694,000 children exceeded the normal classroom capacity and led to overcrowding, it said.

The office said the number of classrooms built during the last six years has averaged about 70,000 rooms annually. This is just above the level needed to take care of increased enrollment and replace abandoned classrooms, it said.

Therefore, the shortage of space has remained relatively stable — about 140,000 classrooms since 1957.

State departments of education also reported that 6.1 per cent of public grade school and high school teachers—a total of 89,700—have not met full standards for a teaching certificate. This represents a decrease of 2,600 from the corresponding figure in 1960.

Cuba Refugees Repay $250,000 In U.S. Relief

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Cuban refugees have repaid nearly $250,000 in cash relief payments made by the United States, the government announced Wednesday.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said that Cubans who fled from the Fidel Castro regime voluntarily turned back $122,254 during the past eight months.

An additional $123,346 was paid at the request of the federal refugee center in Miami, Fla. principal center of the Cuban refugees.

During December, 874 Cubans who fled their homeland voluntarily repaid $48,873—an average of nearly $60 a person—the government said. They had either found jobs in Florida, were resettled on jobs elsewhere in this country or had recovered funds from Cuba.

The total refugee relief bill in 1961 ran to $18 million and included the cost of medical care, surplus food, loans and payments to schools in the Miami area that absorbed children of the Cubans.

Auto Production Slumped Last Year

DETROIT (UPI)—Auto production in 1961 slumped considerably from the previous year, but most manufacturers made a strong comeback in December, final production totals released Tuesday indicated.

Chrysler Corp. produced 648,670 autos in 1961, compared with 1,019,295 in 1960. American Motors Corp. slumped from 485,745 in 1960 to 372,485 last year.

Studebaker-Packard reported a decline from 105,902 in 1960 to 78,661 last year. Ford Motor Co. built 1,892,003 autos in 1960 and 1,689,936 last year.

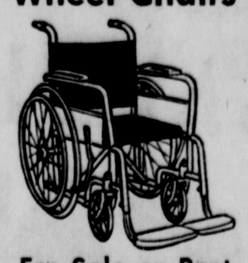

General Motors Corp. built 3,193,181 autos in 1960 and only 2,726,581 last year.

But most firms reported peak production in December, indicating the automotive industry was entering 1962 on a strong footing.

Ford, for example, said December production of cars and trucks was the highest in two years. Ford officials said 221,570 units were produced during the month, exceeding by more than 40,000 the firm's December, 1960, output. It was the highest monthly total since January, 1960.

American Motors said its production of 43,688 vehicles last month was the highest for any month of last year.

Schools Have Shortage Of 127,200 Classrooms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation suffers from a shortage of 127,200 public school classrooms, the U. S. Office of Education reported today.

It said its eighth annual survey indicated that 60,200 classrooms were needed to relieve overcrowding and 67,000 more would be required to replace unsatisfactory quarters.

The office said the classroom shortage as reported by the 50 states and the District of Columbia was reduced by 15,300 from the fall of 1960 to the fall of 1961.

Classroom construction in the 1960-61 year reached a new high of 72,000 rooms but is expected to decline this year, it said.

Public school enrollment, meantime, reached a new top of 37.5 million when schools opened last September, an increase of 1.2 million over the preceding year. Enrollment will climb by more than one million again this fall, the agency said.

The administration plans to push again this year President Kennedy's program of aid for public grade and high schools. It lost out in Congress last year in the dispute over parochial schools.

Martin Insists On Allocation Of Work Right

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Martin-Marietta Corp., whose Baltimore County plant has been hard hit by a lack of defense contracts, said Wednesday it must retain the right to assign work among its own divisions.

The missile manufacturer, responding to state officials who have been urging that it transfer defense work from its Orlando, Fla. and Denver, Colo. plants to the Baltimore County facility, said:

"We are free to allocate our business where we please."

The statement came in the wake of the firm's recent decision to lay-off 2,500 workers at the Middle River plant in Baltimore County. Officials say the unemployment results from completion of defense contracts for which substitutes have not been obtained.

"We determine where the work can be done most efficiently, recommend this to our customers and seek approval for doing it there," the company said. "That's the way we'll have to continue to do business."

Earlier, the firm said the Middle River facility represented an unsuitable site for work on the Pershing medium-range ballistic missile because the plant is located in a residential neighborhood.

The firm announced Tuesday it had won an Army contract worth nearly $210 million for work on the Pershing system, now manufactured at Martin's Orlando facility.

Savings & Loan Official Indicted For Mail Fraud

BALTIMORE (AP) — James L. Kane, 44, of Silver Spring, was indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday on charges of using the mails to defraud depositors in a savings and loan company.

It was the fifth indictment returned by a federal grand jury in Baltimore since postal inspectors started an investigation of save-by-mail associations three years ago.

In addition, the Maryland attorney general has moved to revoke the charters or order into receivership scores of savings associations under a new law enacted by the 1961 legislature.

The indictment of Kane listed him as secretary-treasurer of the Armed Forces Savings and Loan Association. The association listed branches in Washington and Wheaton, Md.

The indictment charged that Kane prepared and distributed pamphlets containing false advertising between Dec. 1, 1960 and last Oct. 18.

Among the claims which the government allege were false were that the association was supervised by the State Department of Assessments and Taxation, that it had a 5 per cent current dividend rate, deposits were invested in real estate, that titles to such property were guaranteed and that all mortgages were insured.

Fiery Pair

LEEDS, England (UPI)—Circus fire eater Priscilla Birt, 34, announced her engagement Tuesday night to George Maddocks, 28, the circus fireman who checks her act for safety.

Simpkins Urged To Enter Demo Race For Congress

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Secretary of State Lloyd L. Simpkins is being prodded by Eastern Shore friends to oppose Thomas F. Johnson for the Democratic nomination to Congress in May.

Simpkins remained mum. But acquaintances said Wednesday it was because he was waiting for a sign from Gov. Tawes, a fellow Somerset countian seeking renomination.

Johnson is expected to file for his third straight term in the House of Representatives from the Shore's nine counties.

The idea of opposing him in the Democratic primary originated with friends of Simpkins in recent weeks after stories were published of Johnson's connections with a savings and a loan association.

The story revealed that the saving and loan association was paying Johnson $200 a month to rent an office from him in his home town of Snow Hill.

An official of the association has pleaded no contest to a charge to use the mails to defraud in connection with another saving and loan firm.

Some of the first Democratic friends of Simpkins to suggest he oppose Johnson were in Cecil County, one of the two counties which Johnson lost in the 1960 election.

Johnson won the House seat in 1958 by defeating Edward T. Miller, Republican who had held it since 1946. Johnson held it in a comeback try by Miller two years ago.

Simpkins has been thinking about running for an elective office for several months, including the House of Delegates where he had served eight years. But he had not made up his mind when the Congressional "boomlet" started.

Simpkins left the House in 1958 when he tried unsuccessfully for the Somerset County seat held by the Republican, Harry T. Phoebus.

He was appointed executive secretary by Gov. Tawes in 1959 and last year as secretary of state, a post paying $10,000 a year.

Rebels Attack

RANGOON, Burma (UPI) — Seven persons were killed in an attack on the village of Hangan by Karen rebels, it was disclosed Wednesday. Hangan is near the East Burma seaport of Moulmein. One rebel was killed.

Baltimore Man Held In $50,000 Embezzlement

BALTIMORE (AP) — The FBI announced the arrest Wednesday of John F. Batzler Jr. on a charge of embezzling $50,000 from the Equitable Trust Co. of Baltimore, where he was employed for 10 years.

Batzler, 42, married and the father of three children, was to be arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart in Baltimore.

Edward J. Powers, special agent in charge of the Baltimore FBI office, said Batzler "accomplished the embezzlement by transferring funds from a dormant account at the bank to a dummy account on which he drew checks during the period of May, 1960, to October, 1961. He destroyed the checks and dummy account."

The FBI said Batzler was simultaneously assistant treasurer, assistant secretary and manager of the bookkeeping department when he left the bank's employ last October to go into his own business.

Bank officials told the FBI the shortage was covered by a bond held by the New Amsterdam Casualty Co. of Baltimore.

Pair Repeats Sit-In; Under Arrest Again

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two Negroes were in Criminal Court Wednesday for arraignment on trespass charges growing out of their sit-in demonstrations in Baltimore restaurants in protest to segregation.

Within an hour after leaving the courtroom, the two were arrested at Hooper's Restaurant in downtown Baltimore and charged with trespassing again.

The Rev. Dr. Logan Kearse, 40, and Warren S. Shaw, 37, real estate broker, refused to post collateral and were jailed pending a hearing in Central Municipal Court.

Kearse and Shaw were the only persons sitting in at the restaurant. They were there about 45 minutes before they were arrested.

Kearse, a Democratic candidate for Congress, was one of the leaders of sit-in demonstrations at restaurants last fall.

Arraignment for Kearse, Shaw and 30 other defendants, which had been scheduled for Wednesday, was postponed by Judge Emory Niles pending a motion by defense lawyers for dismissal of the charges. They contend Maryland's trespass law is unconstitutional.

Martin Insists On Allocation Of Work Right

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Martin-Marietta Corp., whose Baltimore County plant has been hard hit by a lack of defense contracts, said Wednesday it must retain the right to assign work among its own divisions.

The missile manufacturer, responding to state officials who have been urging that it transfer defense work from its Orlando, Fla. and Denver, Colo. plants to the Baltimore County facility, said:

"We are free to allocate our business where we please."

The statement came in the wake of the firm's recent decision to lay-off 2,500 workers at the Middle River plant in Baltimore County. Officials say the unemployment results from completion of defense contracts for which substitutes have not been obtained.

"We determine where the work can be done most efficiently, recommend this to our customers and seek approval for doing it there," the company said. "That's the way we'll have to continue to do business."

Earlier, the firm said the Middle River facility represented an unsuitable site for work on the Pershing medium-range ballistic missile because the plant is located in a residential neighborhood.

The firm announced Tuesday it had won an Army contract worth nearly $210 million for work on the Pershing system, now manufactured at Martin's Orlando facility.

Savings & Loan Official Indicted For Mail Fraud

BALTIMORE (AP) — James L. Kane, 44, of Silver Spring, was indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday on charges of using the mails to defraud depositors in a savings and loan company.

It was the fifth indictment returned by a federal grand jury in Baltimore since postal inspectors started an investigation of save-by-mail associations three years ago.

In addition, the Maryland attorney general has moved to revoke the charters or order into receivership scores of savings associations under a new law enacted by the 1961 legislature.

The indictment of Kane listed him as secretary-treasurer of the Armed Forces Savings and Loan Association. The association listed branches in Washington and Wheaton, Md.

The indictment charged that Kane prepared and distributed pamphlets containing false advertising between Dec. 1, 1960 and last Oct. 18.

Among the claims which the government allege were false were that the association was supervised by the State Department of Assessments and Taxation, that it had a 5 per cent current dividend rate, deposits were invested in real estate, that titles to such property were guaranteed and that all mortgages were insured.

Fiery Pair

LEEDS, England (UPI)—Circus fire eater Priscilla Birt, 34, announced her engagement Tuesday night to George Maddocks, 28, the circus fireman who checks her act for safety.

Simpkins Urged To Enter Demo Race For Congress

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Secretary of State Lloyd L. Simpkins is being prodded by Eastern Shore friends to oppose Thomas F. Johnson for the Democratic nomination to Congress in May.

Simpkins remained mum. But acquaintances said Wednesday it was because he was waiting for a sign from Gov. Tawes, a fellow Somerset countian seeking renomination.

Johnson is expected to file for his third straight term in the House of Representatives from the Shore's nine counties.

The idea of opposing him in the Democratic primary originated with friends of Simpkins in recent weeks after stories were published of Johnson's connections with a savings and a loan association.

The story revealed that the saving and loan association was paying Johnson $200 a month to rent an office from him in his home town of Snow Hill.

An official of the association has pleaded no contest to a charge to use the mails to defraud in connection with another saving and loan firm.

Some of the first Democratic friends of Simpkins to suggest he oppose Johnson were in Cecil County, one of the two counties which Johnson lost in the 1960 election.

Johnson won the House seat in 1958 by defeating Edward T. Miller, Republican who had held it since 1946. Johnson held it in a comeback try by Miller two years ago.

Simpkins has been thinking about running for an elective office for several months, including the House of Delegates where he had served eight years. But he had not made up his mind when the Congressional "boomlet" started.

Simpkins left the House in 1958 when he tried unsuccessfully for the Somerset County seat held by the Republican, Harry T. Phoebus.

He was appointed executive secretary by Gov. Tawes in 1959 and last year as secretary of state, a post paying $10,000 a year.

Rebels Attack

RANGOON, Burma (UPI) — Seven persons were killed in an attack on the village of Hangan by Karen rebels, it was disclosed Wednesday. Hangan is near the East Burma seaport of Moulmein. One rebel was killed.

Baltimore Man Held In $50,000 Embezzlement

BALTIMORE (AP) — The FBI announced the arrest Wednesday of John F. Batzler Jr. on a charge of embezzling $50,000 from the Equitable Trust Co. of Baltimore, where he was employed for 10 years.

Batzler, 42, married and the father of three children, was to be arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart in Baltimore.

Edward J. Powers, special agent in charge of the Baltimore FBI office, said Batzler "accomplished the embezzlement by transferring funds from a dormant account at the bank to a dummy account on which he drew checks during the period of May, 1960, to October, 1961. He destroyed the checks and dummy account."

The FBI said Batzler was simultaneously assistant treasurer, assistant secretary and manager of the bookkeeping department when he left the bank's employ last October to go into his own business.

Bank officials told the FBI the shortage was covered by a bond held by the New Amsterdam Casualty Co. of Baltimore.

Pair Repeats Sit-In; Under Arrest Again

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two Negroes were in Criminal Court Wednesday for arraignment on trespass charges growing out of their sit-in demonstrations in Baltimore restaurants in protest to segregation.

Within an hour after leaving the courtroom, the two were arrested at Hooper's Restaurant in downtown Baltimore and charged with trespassing again.

The Rev. Dr. Logan Kearse, 40, and Warren S. Shaw, 37, real estate broker, refused to post collateral and were jailed pending a hearing in Central Municipal Court.

Kearse and Shaw were the only persons sitting in at the restaurant. They were there about 45 minutes before they were arrested.

Kearse, a Democratic candidate for Congress, was one of the leaders of sit-in demonstrations at restaurants last fall.

Arraignment for Kearse, Shaw and 30 other defendants, which had been scheduled for Wednesday, was postponed by Judge Emory Niles pending a motion by defense lawyers for dismissal of the charges. They contend Maryland's trespass law is unconstitutional.

Liquor Board Hears Arguments

The question which the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners will have to decide in connection with a remonstrance heard yesterday at the Court House is whether the road mileage by car or the radius on a map will be used to meet residency requirements for licenses.

It is required to have at least 500 residents within one mile of any establishment where alcoholic beverages are sold.

Ray Mills and his wife, Catherine, applied for a Class D beer, wine and liquor permit for the premises on U. S. Route 40 just beyond the LaVale Shopping Plaza. They have operated a business known as Stuckey's at the site for about six years.

Rev. James Perry, pastor of the LaVale Methodist Church, and a number of other residents filed a remonstrance against the issuance of the permit.

He testified that he had three reasons for being against granting the permit. One was the 500 residents within a mile requirement, the traffic hazard was another and the third was the general statement that "the people of LaVale don't want any more such places."

Rev. Mr. Perry said that he personally and with the assistance of a number of other persons made a check of the houses within the area by using the speedometer of an auto and they determined that 265 persons resided in the area.

Willis V. Smith, Boy Scout executive and a resident on North Woodlawn, LaVale, testified that he had assisted Rev. Mr. Perry in the check of the area to determine the one-mile section but had not taken part in the actual house to house count.

He also stated he agreed with Rev. Mr. Perry's reasons as to the traffic hazard and also the lack of a need for another establishment selling alcoholic beverages.

Mrs. Mills, who did most of the work preparing the figures on the residency requirement with the assistance of her husband, testified that the State Roads Commission district office had furnished two maps from which the one-mile radius was computed.

Using the area outlined on the maps and a city directory a list of all the residents in the area were listed. By use of telephone the check of the residents was made and the figure was 615 persons.

She said that by using the radius on the map method the one mile east on U.S. Route 40 came to the National Jet Building. She also said that it took in Camp Ground Road and Vocke Road sections as well.

Both she and her husband said that during the six years they operated Stuckey's that no traffic accidents had happened as a result of people driving in or out of their property. Mills said there was a 300-foot frontage and parking space for about 50 cars.

Edward R. Willison, liquor board inspector, said he and Angus Turnbull, the other inspector, made a check via car and allowed one and two-tenths of a mile in using a car speedometer measuring system. They came up with 360 residents, Willison said.

Leslie J. Clark, who appeared as attorney for Hugh Kifer, who operates a package goods store on U.S. Route 40 opposite the LaVale Shopping Plaza, said his client had also made a check of the one-mile area via the car mileage system and came up with 251 residents. The check was made by William Shuck, Frostburg, who is also a constable in Trial Magistrates Court here.

Clark said his client has no intent to restrict competition, but that he had invested about $30,000 in his business and another such establishment in the area would "dilute" the possible successful business for both he and Mills in the event the permit was granted.

West Side Home Damaged By Fire

Firemen from West Side Station battled a home blaze for more than two hours early yesterday.

Considerable property damage was caused to the dwelling located at 15 Spruce Alley and being occupied by Helen Meade. The frame building is owned by a Clarence Smith.

Firemen said they received the alarm at 5:18 a. m. and remained on the scene until 7:40 a. m.

The blaze started in an overheated chimney and caused considerable damage to floors and wall studs.

Central fireman Tuesday answered two false alarms at 415 North Centre Street. The first alarm came in at 7:30 p. m., and shortly after firemen returned to the station a second false alarm was pulled.

The pyramids of ancient Egypt were built from 3000 B. C. to 1800 B. C. The oldest is at Sakkara and the biggest at Gizeh, near Cairo.

Heller's 'Salt-Manac' Forecasts Good 1962

Charles F. Heller's "Salt-Manac" for 1962 made its appearance yesterday and if the onions and salt are right, the area is in for a good year weatherwise and the farmers' crops will be plentiful.

The Heller process, which employs a special-type onion and salt to predict wet and dry months, has been a fairly consistent and accurate barometer here dating back to 1846. It is, in fact, a family tradition.

In addition to his wet and dry month predictions, Heller also employs the caterpillar to forecast what kind of winter is ahead.

This year, the caterpillar indicates it will not be bad, in fact a lot better than the rough one of 1961. Last year, the caterpillar was black from front to rear foretelling a rough winter, Heller says. This year, all are marked with the front part black, the center yellow and the tail black which predicts that the middle of winter will be mild, the beginning and closing of winter rather hard, Heller continues.

As for the wet-dry predictions, here is Heller's report based on the salt and onions:

January, wet; February, wet; March, moist (not much rain); April, real wet; May, dry; June, wet; July, dry; August, moist, not much rain; September, dry; October, dry; November, wet; and December, wet.

"So from the above report, it should be a good year for farmers, the people who by their hard work and toil produce the food that goes on every table in this country to maintain and continue life for all of us," Heller said.

Onions used in the forecast were grown by Mrs. Edith Carney in her garden at 222 Wills Creek Avenue.

Heller says "Onions are a very fine vegetable. If a bee stings you, cut an onion in half and lay a half on the sting. It will act as magic—the sting will not swell. If you have a cold, make a poltice, place it on your chest when going to bed and in the morning when you get up, you'll feel like mixing concrete."

In addition to couple of choice stories for which he is famous, Heller also included several other items in his report among them: Burbank, the famous grower of seeds, is offering $5,000 to anyone producing a white marigold; and that his wet predictions enable a farmer to determine whether to plant on a hillside or in a valley.

Heller says "Onions are a very fine vegetable. If a bee stings you, cut an onion in half and lay a half on the sting. It will act as magic—the sting will not swell. If you have a cold, make a poltice, place it on your chest when going to bed and in the morning when you get up, you'll feel like mixing concrete."

In addition to couple of choice stories for which he is famous, Heller also included several other items in his report among them: Burbank, the famous grower of seeds, is offering $5,000 to anyone producing a white marigold; and that his wet predictions enable a farmer to determine whether to plant on a hillside or in a valley.

Etiquette For The Social Whirl

An occasional, quick brush-up on the accepted ways of action in various situations will prevent any little frictions from occurring that might rob you of enjoyment during the winter social whirl. How about taking your movie and theater brush-up today? Mark the following points T. for true and F. for false.

1. The lady holds her own ticket of admission. T. or F. 2. A woman always checks her coat when her escort checks his. T. or F. 3. Your escort always precedes you down the aisle and enters the row of seats ahead of you T. or F.

4. If you are with another couple, the ladies sit together. T. or F. 5. Must you remove your hat? T. or F. 6. During the performance, you may make remarks providing they are amusing. T. or F. 7. A woman does not have to stand up to let people pass her seat. T. or F.

8. When your escort or anyone else fails to observe a small amenity, you should point this out. T. or F.

Now, see how you made out. All your answers will be correct, if you have kept in mind that the gracious acting way is the right way.

1. False, because it is gracious for your escort to assume all the responsibility for an evening's entertainment.

2. False: a woman keeps her coat around her (unless it is wet) as a protection from chill drafts. 3. True and false: a woman precedes her escort down the aisle unless there is no usher present, but her escort always enters the row of seats ahead of her to clear the way.

4. True: the ladies sit together with the escorts on each side. 5. True: you must remove your hat unless it is as head-conforming as your hair. 6. False: talking of any kind is unforgivably bad conduct. 7. False: for everybody's sake, including your own, stand up promptly and cheerfully.

8. False: consideration of the feelings of others is the first rule of etiquette in any situation.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—You can't laugh off "Uncle" Miltie Berle as a serious actor these days — not since he hit the jackpot as the blackjack dealer in "Doyle Against The House" on TV. Now, if you please, Milton will co-star with Spencer Tracy in "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad World" for Stanley Kramer. Kramer was one of the first to send Milton a telegram of congratulation after he saw him as "Doyle" and he didn't forget when he was casting the role of the millionaire businessman in his upcoming picture.

If Berle should happen to pick off an Emmy for "Doyle"—and he's a hot contender, he'll be even more an asset to the film.

Meanwhile, he'll continue keeping the wolf from his Beverly Hills estate doing the nightclub circuit, now in Las Vegas and opening at the Cocoanut Grove on March 6.

It's more than 20 years that Francis Lederer played the memorable heavy in "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" at Warner Bros. This week he starts a new relationship with the studio, with his first job as a director when he directs a segment of "77 Sunset Strip," co-starring Edd Byrnes and Roger Smith.

Francis has been so eager to turn director that he's worked on the low practically every day for the last eight months as an observer.

Young Sean Flynn told me before he left for Spain to star in "The Son of Captain Blood" if he didn't have any talent as an actor, he was going to drop the whole thing. But apparently Harry Joe Brown thinks he has talent, and so does everybody else who has seen him work.

He has a firm offer to remain abroad to star in a remake of "Zorro," one of the late Douglas Fairbanks movies, but Sean is so eager to land the young male role in "Celebration" at Twentieth, that he turned down "Zorro" with the foreign independent company to come back to Hollywood to personally campaign for the Twnetieth movie.

With his marriage of many years on the rocks, Jack Kruschen who crashed into prominence with an Oscar nomination as the doctor in "The Apartment." is writing on a new slate. On Jan. 3 he leaves for New York where he'll star in David Merrick's new show "I Can Get It For You Wholesale," Jack's first Broadway play.

Kruschen figures he won't be forgotten by movie fans as he has three important pictures coming out in '62, "Cape Fear" with Gregory Peck, "Lover Come Back" with Rock Hudson and Doris Day, and his newest, "Follow that Dream."

After being married for 15 years, for the first time in their careers Oscar Homolka and his wife Joan Tetzel will be teamed in "The Human Comedy" by William Sorayan in a TV series to be made by MGM.

Those two young producers, Robert Maxwell and Rudy Abel, who wrote "Dr. Kildare," and other shows for MGM, will write the Homolka-Tetzel TV epic to start early this month. Some of the older members of our paying customers will probably remember "The Human Comedy," which starred Frank Morgan and Fay Bainter.

A New Year story:
The dawning New Year means more than just the start of a new calendar for Dick Haymes. It's the start of a whole new life. During one of the frankest talks I've ever had with an actor, Dick told me:

"Five years ago I climbed inside a bottle of whisky and almost destroyed myself as a useful human being. To say nothing of ruining my career.

"Not long ago I met Fran (his actress-singer wife, Fran Jeffreys) just in time! I guess I needed the love of a wonderful person like her to help restore my faith in myself and my self respect.

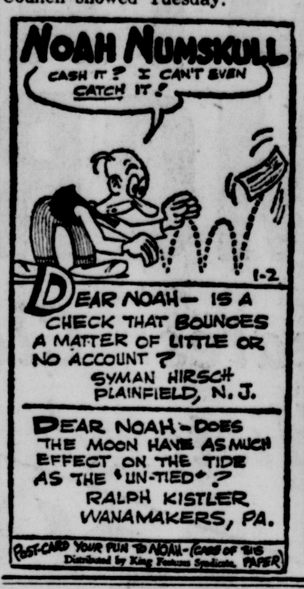

"Although I'm still a long way from where I was in my career when the bottle got me, I'm on my way back. I've never been happier in my life.

"I haven't had a drink in over a year. I'm paying my debts thanks to the best personal manager and friend a man could have, Steven Blauner, who also handles Bobby Darin. Thanks to Steve, Fran and I are back to headlining shows at the Flamingo, Eden Roc, Fontainebleau and Palmer House."

Parking Receipts Up

Parking meter receipts the week of December 24 amounted to $1,079.60 compared to $971.97 the week of December 17, an increase of $107.63, a report by Inspector Harry Whisner to the Mayor and Council showed Tuesday.

Mosner Wins Death Stay

Baltimore Attorney William P. Mosner, a native of Cumberland, has won a stay of execution for a convicted murderer who was scheduled to be executed next week.

The man, Leonard Hall Jr., 24, formerly of Keansburg, N. J., was convicted of murder by a Baltimore Circuit Court jury in November 1959.

Judge Roszel C. Thomsen of the U. S. District Court in Baltimore today ordered the stay pending the outcome of a hearing on a petition filed by defense attorney Mosner.

Mosner in his petition claimed police seized evidence illegally and won a confession from Hall on the basis of the evidence.

Attorney Mosner asked if the U. S. Supreme Court ruling which prohibits the use in court of illegally seized evidence was valid in 1959.

The question before Judge Thomsen is whether a U. S. Supreme Court ruling on the admissibility of evidence is retroactive or applies only since the decision was handed down last June.

Should Judge Thomsen rule in favor of Attorney Mosner then Hall and hundreds of other prisoners convicted through the use of such evidence presumably would be entitled to new trials if the decision of the nation's highest court is retroactive.

Hall was convicted of the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Anna B. Gaff, 66, who died after a $700 robbery at her tavern in July 1959.

Tragic Holidays

PARIS (UPI) — Twenty - five persons were killed and 80 injured in car accidents in France during the new year weekend, police reported Tuesday. They blamed drunken drivers for most of the accidents.

The Cyclops were a fabled race of giants who had but one eye, placed in the center of the forehead.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass	3 NT
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ♣

When an adversary opens the bidding, it is reasonable to presume that outstanding cards are held by him. That does not, however, mean that the location of these cards should be taken for granted if there is a safer method for declarer to attain his ends.

West opened the bidding with one spade and North overcalled with two diamonds. South, tho he held a sound diamond raise, thought it preferable to try three no trump because game in diamonds appeared too remote. North cheerfully accepted his partner's decision.

The deuce of clubs was opened and declarer took it for granted that West held the king. He played low from dummy and East won. The nine of spades was returned and the suit established by the defense before the ace of diamonds was dislodged. Declarer was unable to bring home nine tricks in time.

Altho the king of clubs is probably in the hand of the opening bidder, the proper play at the first trick is the ace of clubs. If West has the king, he'll have it a minute or two later and, when he is in, will be unable to do more than cash his high honor.

After the ace of clubs is taken, the diamonds are cleared at once and West will continue clubs. East will win the king and return a spade. Declarer will take this, and now he can be reasonably sure that West holds the king of hearts as part of his opening bid, inasmuch as he lacked the king of clubs.

If he is not now content in running his nine tricks, he may go for overtricks by trying the heart finesse. When the king drops on the second round, the rest of the tricks are his.

But at trick one it was vital for declarer not to risk the loss of a valuable time unit.

Mosner Wins Death Stay

Baltimore Attorney William P. Mosner, a native of Cumberland, has won a stay of execution for a convicted murderer who was scheduled to be executed next week.

The man, Leonard Hall Jr., 24, formerly of Keansburg, N. J., was convicted of murder by a Baltimore Circuit Court jury in November 1959.

Judge Roszel C. Thomsen of the U. S. District Court in Baltimore today ordered the stay pending the outcome of a hearing on a petition filed by defense attorney Mosner.

Mosner in his petition claimed police seized evidence illegally and won a confession from Hall on the basis of the evidence.

Attorney Mosner asked if the U. S. Supreme Court ruling which prohibits the use in court of illegally seized evidence was valid in 1959.

The question before Judge Thomsen is whether a U. S. Supreme Court ruling on the admissibility of evidence is retroactive or applies only since the decision was handed down last June.

Should Judge Thomsen rule in favor of Attorney Mosner then Hall and hundreds of other prisoners convicted through the use of such evidence presumably would be entitled to new trials if the decision of the nation's highest court is retroactive.

Hall was convicted of the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Anna B. Gaff, 66, who died after a $700 robbery at her tavern in July 1959.

Tragic Holidays

PARIS (UPI) — Twenty - five persons were killed and 80 injured in car accidents in France during the new year weekend, police reported Tuesday. They blamed drunken drivers for most of the accidents.

The Cyclops were a fabled race of giants who had but one eye, placed in the center of the forehead.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♦	Pass	3 NT
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ♣

When an adversary opens the bidding, it is reasonable to presume that outstanding cards are held by him. That does not, however, mean that the location of these cards should be taken for granted if there is a safer method for declarer to attain his ends.

West opened the bidding with one spade and North overcalled with two diamonds. South, tho he held a sound diamond raise, thought it preferable to try three no trump because game in diamonds appeared too remote. North cheerfully accepted his partner's decision.

The deuce of clubs was opened and declarer took it for granted that West held the king. He played low from dummy and East won. The nine of spades was returned and the suit established by the defense before the ace of diamonds was dislodged. Declarer was unable to bring home nine tricks in time.

Altho the king of clubs is probably in the hand of the opening bidder, the proper play at the first trick is the ace of clubs. If West has the king, he'll have it a minute or two later and, when he is in, will be unable to do more than cash his high honor.

After the ace of clubs is taken, the diamonds are cleared at once and West will continue clubs. East will win the king and return a spade. Declarer will take this, and now he can be reasonably sure that West holds the king of hearts as part of his opening bid, inasmuch as he lacked the king of clubs.

If he is not now content in running his nine tricks, he may go for overtricks by trying the heart finesse. When the king drops on the second round, the rest of the tricks are his.

But at trick one it was vital for declarer not to risk the loss of a valuable time unit.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a freshman at a very tough school (University of Nebraska). The head of our journalism department thinks you are pretty good. This gave me an idea.

I have to turn in a paper for a humanities course. It can deal with any phase of human problems. Since this is right up your alley it occurred to me that you could be a great help. (After all, you say you're interested in helping people.)

The material you have right at your fingertips is terrific because it comes directly from the people with the problems. This beats anything I could find in the library.

Be a pal and jot down about 1500 words on the problems most people write about. It doesn't have to be in finished form. I will work it over and add some of my own thoughts. Thanks a lot. —WITHHOLD NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: Your offer was the best one of the day. All I have to do is jot down 1500 words and it doesn't even have to be a finished essay — just a few random thoughts which you will "work over." Lucky me.

Look, Buster, I wrote my own essays and term papers when I was in college and you can write yours. Haul your freight over to the library and get to work.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My widowed sister came to me for advice because I am her oldest brother. Her 19-year-old son wants to get married. He flunked everything last year and had to change schools. The girl he wants to marry is 17 and she acts like 12.

The boy wants his mother to loan him $2,000 to get married on and then give him $600 a month. He agreed to pay her back in 1970, when he comes into his share of his father's estate.

The boy has sold her on the idea that all he wants is an advance on what legally belongs to him. He says he's not asking for HER money, he just wants his — a few years sooner.

She's a nervous person and the pressure is getting too much for her. What do you say?—BROTHER

DEAR BROTHER: I say NO. When the boy's father set up his will he knew what he was doing.

If this mother agrees to the boy's preposterous plan she will expedite what probably will be a disastrous marriage.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've known a certain man for five years. He's 30 and I am 28. He has taken me out dozens of times but every date was arranged by someone else. We are paired together by hostesses, relatives and friends. I've invited him to several affairs when I have had tickets, or hosted a party. It seems that everyone thinks of us as a "couple" but him.

No I am not in love with him, but I could be — with a little encouragement. What really bothers me is that in the five years we've been dating, I've had to face up to the fact that he has never once taken the initiative to ask me out. (And I'll bet he hasn't spent a total of $10 on me in the five years either.) What do you think of this relationship?—CONVENIENT

DEAR CONVENIENT: Fine, if you want to go through life dating, giving parties and buying tickets. He's just the guy who will let you do it.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

W. Va. Seen As Test For MAA

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—If West Virginia's medical aid for the aged program fails, Congress might then place care of elder citizens under social security, the president of the West Virginia State Medical Association says.

Dr. D. E. Greeneltch of Wheeling, in an article in the January issue of the West Virginia Medical Journal, wrote that if the social security approach is taken, "ultimate socialization of medicine would follow."

He urged the state's doctors to rally behind the MAA program, which is financed by state and federal funds.

"Failure of the MAA program in West Virginia could very well trigger the passage of the King-Anderson (social security) legislation early in the next Congress," he said.

"It is not this specific bill but its inclusion in the social security format that gives each succeeding Congress the power to enlarge the program."

MAA, administered at the state level by the Department of Welfare, has been running into financial trouble. The legislature provided funds to continue it through last December, and Welfare Commissioner W. Brnard Smith has said he would seek a deficiency appropriation to see the program through the current fiscal year, which ends June 30.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 91 One of the intriguing scenes conjured up in Burke Davis' provocative book, "Our Incredible Civil War" (pub. by Holt, Rinehart & Winston), is, "In a battle near Lynchburg, Va., in 1864, a former vice president, the Confederate Gen. John Cabell Breckinridge faced two future presidents in Union uniform: Brig. Gen. Rutherford B. Hayes and Major William McKinley."

Four other future presidents—Grant, Arthur, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison—were in the Union forces. All six, except McKinley, attained a gold-braid rank. He and Hayes started in the same regiment. Hayes was commissioned major June 27, 1861, in the 23rd Ohio Infantry, in which McKinley had enlisted as a private four days earlier. McKinley, a sergeant when the Battle of Antietam was fought the following September, earned a battlefield promotion to second lieutenant. Hayes, a lieutenant colonel then, was wounded in another battle that month.

Meanwhile, James A. Garfield, who had gone to war as lieutenant colonel, 42nd Ohio Infantry, had risen to command a brigade under Grant at Shiloh, and then had been felled by fever. When fit again for duty, he was chosen by the redoubtable William Starke Rosecrans as the latter's chief of staff—a tribute to Garfield's military qualities, for Rosecrans, one of the ablest generals in the Army, had a hot temper and no tolerance of slipshod soldiering.

Garfield's successor-to-be as president, Chester A. Arthur, was a lawyer who attached himself before the war to the New York State Militia as a judge-advocate and, when hostilities broke out, secured a position as quartermaster-general, with the rank of brigadier, in the New York forces. Arthur was shuffled out of the service for some reason in 1863, and practiced law advantageously the remaining two years of the conflict.

Singularly, he was appointed Collector of the Port of New York by one of Civil War presidents, Grant, and deposed from that post by another, Hayes. —CLARK KINNAIRD

[←] Benjamin Harrison in 1863, when he had earned the rank of brigadier general, U.S.A. A Harrison biographer says the grandson of Maj. Gen. William Henry Harrison, hero of Tippecanoe, made himself unpopular in Ohio in 1861 "because he insisted on turning raw recruits into disciplined soldiers."

Broader Use Of Hopemont Is Considered

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—One of the items in Gov. W. W. Barron's call to the 1962 Legislature was aimed at making greater use of facilities at the state's two tuberculosis sanitariums, Hopemont and Pinecrest.

In the 30-item agenda announced last Saturday was a request that the Public Institutions Department be permitted to redefine the type of patient that can be treated at the two facilities. At present, only those suffering from tuberculosis are admitted.

Institutions Commissioner Joseph Hodgson said Wednesday he wants permission to admit patients with other illnesses, particularly those suffering from other chest diseases.

Hopemont, in Preston County, now has about 200 patients, with room for about 100 more patients. At Pinecrest, in Beckley, only about 400 of its 640 beds are in use.

Hodgson said the change would require additional personnel but that he was not asking for more money pending a year's experience with the new plan, if it's approved.

Capital Soon Will Be Back To Normal

A dispatch from Washington describes the political serenity that prevails in the capital. However pleasant, such tranquility is not for long. Congress will reconvene on January 10—and the political storms will be upon us.

The opening flareup is likely to be in the House over the Democratic leadership. Apparently the speakership will go to Representative McCormack of Massachusetts. But impending is the contest between Representatives Bolling of Missouri and Albert of Oklahoma for the floor leadership, with the latter's backers looking ahead to the day when the 70-year-old McCormack steps down.

Following in close order will be the President's message on the State of the Union. The budget message will arrive shortly thereafter. So will the administration's recommendations on foreign trade policy, medical care for the aged under Social Security, tax reform and other matters that can be depended upon to raise Washington's tempo and tempers.

Always present are such old standbys as Khrushchev, Berlin, the Congo and Laos, our balance of international payments, anti-trust actions, the dollar's integrity—and so on.

Not to be forgotten is the fact that 1962 is a Congressional election year and many of the debates on Capitol Hill are certain to be beamed to the voters back home.

Yes, Washington will soon be its old self again.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

An Expert Experts

Fred Warner Neal is reputed to be an expert on Russian affairs. He has been chief of the foreign economic research on Eastern Europe in the State Department. He presided over this country's first cultural relations program with the Soviet Union, and organized the Russian broadcasts of the Voice of America.

This expert, in a pamphlet published by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions by the Fund for the Republic, said:

"During the past fifteen years the Soviet Union has steadily grown not only in economic and military power but also in world influence, while the area dominated by communism has expanded. At the same time, American policy has become wholly enmeshed in a nuclear arms race which, far from promoting our security, has within it the seeds of war and thus of destruction of our whole civilization."

As one reads this paragraph, it is to be presumed that Soviet Russia is performing a noble task by spreading its imperial power by economic and military expansion whereas the United States is performing a criminal act by organizing to defend itself and its allies against conquest by Soviet Russia. Neal apparently does not believe that we are organizing to protect this country from being conquered as Hungary or Tibet have been conquered but rather that we should give in to Russian suzerainty. For instance, he says:

"And a solicitous concern for the very objectives we seek to further makes it necessary to state that the responsibility for today's dangerous international situation must also be shared in no little degree by American policy."

I gather that Neal feels that the United States has pushed Soviet Russia into its ugly attitude. For instance, he says:

"Pushed by fear, ignorance, and ideology, which often add up to false views of the world, the Russians are frequently not only churlish but also in intentional conflict with much of what we stand for at home and abroad. Their insistence on this conflict, partly in the hope of fostering communism throughout the world, is a type of aggression, but in and of itself it is not necessarily military aggression."

But what are the facts? It was the United States which rescued Siberian provinces of Soviet Russia from the Japanese who would in 1918 to 1920 have had no difficulty in walking off with that loot. I was there and watched that performance from beginning to end. It was the United States which sent food to Soviet Russia in the 1920s when the Revolution was collapsing from hunger. It was the United States which gave Soviet Russia $11,000,000,000 to defend itself against conquest by Hitler after the Hitler-Stalin Alliance was broken; it was the United States which brought Soviet Russia into the family of Western nations.

As I read this curious apology for Soviet Russia, I wonder what can possibly be its justification. For instance, Neal says:

"Nowhere in the whole body of Soviet Marxist theory is there the implication that the Soviet Union, for ideological or any other reasons, should itself initiate a war . . . Soviet doctrine foresees communism coming to the world through other means than military conquest."

However, Stalin wrote:

"Under such circumstances, could the Russian Communists have confined their operations within the narrow national limits of the Russian revolution? Certainly not! On the contrary, the whole situation, internal (profound revolutionary crisis) and external (war) pushed them beyond these confines in their work, to transfer their struggles to the international arena, expose the ulcers of imperialism to full view, demonstrate the inevitable collapse of capitalism, defeat social-chauvinism and social-pacifism, and finally overthrow capitalism in their own country and forge a new weapon of struggle for the proletariat, the theory and tactics of the proletarian revolution, in order to lighten for the proletariat of all countries the task of overthrowing capitalism."

If this is not a justification for war, for conquest and infiltration, what is it? I can cite dozens of similar statements in Soviet literature and actually Mao Tze-tung's quarrel with Khrushchev is based on the fact that Khrushchev is betraying the Stalinist concept that Communism can only succeed by constant war. Lenin stated the case simply:

"The proletarian revolution is impossible without the violent destruction of the bourgeois state machine and its replacement by a new one."

Perhaps Fred Warner Neal did not read enough.

Gun And The Stick Man

Alsop Says 'Unduly Gloomy' Charge Groundless

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

There is a story of the great Field Marshal Smut's first visit to London that seems to gain point with each passing New Year's day.

The time was about halfway between the Boer War and the First World War. Smuts was still a young man, only barely converted from the daring Boer guerrilla commander into loyal subject of the British Empire. He had come on an official visit, to signify his new loyalty, and London was the first great city this veldt-bred man had ever seen.

The boat-train carried him and his escorting officer into the great city late at night, but they were up early, and they had to wait a while for the official car that was to take Smuts to his first appointment. Smuts passed the time keenly studying the ever-changing spectacle of Piccadilly—pre-first World War Piccadilly, remember, with half its traffic still horse-drawn, and its great houses of the eighteenth century yet to be replaced by huge business blocks.

"It won't work; it never can work," said Smuts finally, as he entered the car. And on being asked what on earth would not work, the soldier-philosopher answered: "All this — this London of yours and what's behind it. It's too complicated. It's got beyond human control."

Another aspect of the same problem is illuminated by a story about Bernard Berenson's first visit to Paris after the Second World War. He was already venerably aged and strangely fragile-seeming, but the eye that founded modern scientific art criticism was as observant as ever. Strolling with him one day, this reporter asked casually why Paris was so evidently the most beautiful great city in the world. The old man paused for only an instant to reflect, and then replied decidedly:

"Because it's the last great city which is still on a human scale."

These two anecdotes of the responses of great men to great cities originally came to mind because this reporter had been charged, as sometimes before, with being unduly gloomy. If a personal word is permissible, the charge is groundless in ordinary terms. There is nothing gloomy or pessimistic in reminders that grave problems exist but can be solved by adequate effort. Real pessimism consists in being so appalled by grave problems that you look the other way.

But perhaps it is gloomy to share Berenson's preference for things being "on a human scale," when the scale of everything, from the scientific disciplines to modern weaponry, from the cities we live in to the tasks that face our governments, is growing more and more gigantically inhuman. And maybe this preference for things "on a human scale" is behind the suspicion that there was much wisdom in old Smuts's reaction to Edwardian London — which was so much more humanly controllable than London today!

Perhaps, too, this backward looking preference and this resulting suspicion have other consequences. Perhaps, for instance, they lead to undue emphasis on the continuous acceleration of history which was the subject of a previous report. But consider the Soviet anti-satellite missile of the future, that was forecast in that report. Think of what science has done, in the single key area of weaponry, in the few short years since the primitive A-bomb glared over Hiroshima.

Or consider almost any other aspect of the phenomenon we call progress. They range from the explosion of knowledge, whose sheer power has driven every intellectual discipline in upon itself, all the way to the population explosion which is pushing every nation out against its neighbors.

In the slow-moving world of the past, there were also explosions of a sort. It is well to remember that the population of Cincinnati, Ohio, is almost certainly not much less than the whole human population of the earth in the era before man took to settled agriculture. Thus began the first explosion, which finally produced the first city. And this Jericho, or this Ur-in-Sumer, or this now nameless and forgotten mound of ruins, must have seemed just as alarming and just as complex to the nomadic hunters of its era, as London seemed to Field Marshal Smuts.

But when change was slow, accommodation to each change was automatic. This is not true today, when the processes of change are so rapid, dynamic, and far-reaching that the historic process has itself been accelerated. Event crowds upon event, upheaval upon upheaval, strategic revolution upon strategic revolution. One consequence, in Western societies, has been the lunatic modern gamut of political attitudes, ranging from the vicious and hysterical unrealism of the extreme right to the open advocacy and national surrender by persons of Bertrand Russell's "better Red than dead" persuasion.

But what is a sensible modern political attitude? The only possible answer is neither ambitious nor fully satisfying. "Peg away, face and meet each problem as it comes, and hope for the best while preparing for the worst"—these maxims do not seem quite adequate in a world being rapidly but unforeseeably transformed. But what other sane answer is there?

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NEW PROCEDURE—When the House of Representatives convenes under the fledgling speakership of Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, there will be some changes in procedures.

McCormack will not have the power of his predecessor, the late Sam Rayburn of Texas. Nor will he attempt to gather such power to himself, at least initially. Rayburn maintained a fine balance between personal power and the rights of the House and its membership.

McCormack will share his power with the new House majority leader, majority whip, and assistant whips. He will delegate more authority to the chairmen of the various House committees.

For this latter reason, the American public can look forward to something new coming their way from the House — the televising of important House committee hearings.

Under Rayburn, televising of House committee proceedings was not permitted because Rayburn felt it his duty to protect the membership from the anticipated excesses of a few. He also felt that the dignity of the House would be impaired if the public should be permitted to witness a headline-seeking "circus," which some House hearings of the past have been.

McCormack's attitude is somewhat different. He takes the position that the speaker should not bar committees from publicizing their activities. He's willing to leave it up to each committee chairman to decide whether or not to permit television cameras in their rooms.

Many members of the House have been urging such a course for years. They argue that the Senate, which permits television, is becoming more and more the dominant chamber of Congress and that something must be done to offset this trend. The public awareness of House activities would contribute to this, they claim, giving the House a more nearly equal share in the legislative process.

Sen. Thomas Dodd's Motives For Visit To Katanga Are Questioned

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Senators, of course, never investigate themselves — except in extreme cases, such as that of the late Joe McCarthy. If they did, it would be interesting to probe the motives of Sen. Tom Dodd, Connecticut Democrat, sometimes called the junior Joe McCarthy, in going to Katanga recently.

Dodd, the only Senator who has been a registered foreign agent, turned up in the Congo in November and December, and helped stir up the opposition to the United Nations during a crisis when men on both sides were losing their lives. He also cooperated with the Katanga Information Office in New York, which has been spending money like water.

The Senator from Connecticut is neither dumb nor naive. He was an able prosecutor at the Nuremburg Trials. He conducted excellent hearings on juvenile delinquency. He obviously knew that his presence in Katanga which the UN and the Kennedy Administration were opposing would strengthen the opposition to the UN and Kennedy. Yet he paraded around Katanga anyway, bolstering President Tshombe and telling him, according to a report by U.S. Ambassador Ed Gullion, that the State Department was influenced by Communists.

Monitored Radio

Here is the way the Elisabethville radio reported the Dodd visit, as picked up by U.S. monitoring services:

"Continuing their tour of Southwest Katanga, President Tshombe and his guest, U. S. Senator Thomas Dodd, left Jadotville on 29 November for Kolezi. At Mulungwishi, Senator Dodd said the purpose of his journey (was) to become acquainted with Katanga, its problems, and its great President.

"In Kilwezi, the crowd had been waiting for two hours when the President and the Senator arrived, and the enthusiasm was indescribable. Speaking in English, the Senator said he understood the people's love for their President, as he was a truly great leader. Senator Dodd expressed his admiration for the achievements of Katanga and promised that on his return to America, he would speak about all he had seen in Katanga. He repeated that in the United States there is considerable sympathy for Katanga. He was frequently interrupted by applause. On 30 November Senator Dodd and his group returned to Elisabethville by plane, while the President left for Jadotville by car."

Senator Dodd is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on African Affairs. It will be interesting to see whether committee members now question what was behind his Katanga trip, or whether Vice President Johnson, who insisted that he be appointed to the committee, now uses his potent influence to take him off.

Note — Secretary of HEW Abe Ribicoff also shares some of the blame for putting Dodd where he is today. When Chester Bowles, ex-Governor of Connecticut,, and Bill Benton, ex-Senator from Connecticut, wanted the Senatorial nomination, Ribicoff swung his weight to Dodd. Bowles and Benton are Protestants, Dodd a Catholic. Ribicoff, a Jew, wanted the support of Catholic voters in heavily Catholic Connecticut.

Pentagon Pipeline

Puzzled at first over Pentagon parlance, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara ordered his subordinates to compile a detailed dictionary of military terms for his use. He has now memorized every entry, speaks the military lingo like a career officer. . . . The brainy defense chief has also been boning up on the intricate workings of his department. He is now so familiar with its labyrinths that he has offered privately to face Congress alone next year. No past secretary ever dreamed of testifying on Capitol Hill without a retinue of advisers to feed him the facts. . . . McNamara has already prepared a painstaking 189-page statement for his debut next month before the House Armed Services Committee. . . . Chairman Carl Vinson, the crusty Georgian, has now asked McNamara to prepare a sanitized version of his statement, cleansed of secrets, that can be handed out to the press. . . . President Kennedy, who has mastered the complexities of every other department but still is struggling with the awesome military machinery, is lavish in his praise of McNamara. The President has boasted privately that McNamara has learned more about the Defense Department in his first year than past secretaries have assimilated during their full terms.

Red Defense Lowdown

U.S. Intelligence now believes that the Red Army was so upset over U-2 spy flights over Soviet territory that the whole defense picture was switched and first priority given to anti-aircraft and anti-missile weapons in order to defend the Soviet.

At any rate, most of Russia's missiles and bombers since that time have been deployed dedefensively. Surprisingly few are located in the Arctic where they could attack the USA. The Russian air force is also geared for defense, not offense. It has about 20,000 MIG fighters designed to intercept U.S. bombers, not to stage an offensive against the USA.

This concentration on defense, the experts believe, may be one reason for the recent concentration on big nuclear warheads and missiles. Red Army leaders apparently felt they got behind in offensive weapons and, according to intelligence reports, insisted that Khrushchev okay the testing of new nuclear weapons.

Intelligence experts generally concur that Premier Khrushchev will not launch a nuclear war unless he is convinced that Russia is in immediate danger of attack.

Duncan's Viewpoint

By John Crosby

STE. ADELE, Quebec

David Douglas Duncan is a very model of a foreign correspondent-photographer — good-looking, greying at the temples, quiet-spoken. Pure type-casting for any Warner Bros. movies is Duncan and the life fits the look. Everything he did for "Life" was a little larger than life-size, as is customary over there — "The World's Great Religions," "The Epic of Man," "The Art of the Kremlin," and both World War II and the Korean War. Nothing small about any of those subjects.

Duncan's latest book, "Picasso's Picassos," is filled with the story of the artist, but, more importantly, Picasso's private collection of his own art which has never — before this book — been seen by anyone except a few close friends of the artist. The book has great splendor—beautifully printed, impressively bound and priced—and Duncan is almost reverent about it. Recently he was standing in a bookstore showing the book to a companion with great care and affection. Then he noticed a potential customer fingering it.

"You want to bet she doesn't buy it?" he said.

"Looks like she will," said his companion.

"Nope, she's turning the pages too fast," said Duncan who, like all authors, observes the behavior patterns of potential book-buyers with passionate attention to detail. He was right. She didn't buy.

Duncan may soon begin a new book—"The Art of the White House," a logical successor to his book on the art of the Kremlin. If he does, it will be the first time he has ever done a story in this country. This idea struck him a few weeks ago while visiting the White House. He somehow wandered into the room where Casals, Horszowski, and Schneider were rehearsing for the famous White House concert.

"I was sitting at the back of the room and sunlight was pouring in," recalled Duncan. "Gilbert Stuart's George Washington was on the wall and I looked at this Spaniard, Jew, and Pole playing that music and I felt, 'Boy, this is America', and here was something great. I'm still trying to find some sort of persistent theme to hang a book on."

I asked Duncan if he thought Americans are getting more sophisticated about art.

"There's not the slightest question in my mind that Americans are getting more appreciative of art. I was just back in Missouri visiting my family, and I went over to see my grammar school for laughs. Wanted to see the graduation picture of me and my brothers. But it wasn't a laugh because right next to those panels of photographs were some reproductions of a Cezanne, a Feininger, and a Picasso. I don't care if a lot of people are going to the Metropolitan to see that Rembrandt just because it cost a lot of money. All that matters is that they went for some reason and maybe something rubbed off on them from another exhibit."

Duncan has been in Russia many times. He said something about them not often heard in this country: "You know, we and the Russians have a great deal in common, really. In fact, the Russians have finally replaced us as the rough people of the world. Back when I was a kid we were considered the roughest people. We had the biggest and best. We were a bit scornful and wore rough-cut clothes. Well, the Russians have taken our places. They wear the rough shoes, the rough-cut jackets. In fact, the Siberians are the Texans of Russia—they've got the biggest and best.

"They, like us, have a great love for family and the same kind of individual warmth and the same materialistic values. Oh, yes, they are materialists. For all their Communism, they've got nothing to offer a man when he succeeds except a bigger car, a better home, longer vacations. Nothing spiritual. They have to find that within themselves as we do.

"The only thing that's different are the soldiers. American soldiers would never, even if they were ordered, take a man out and machine-gun him to death. The Russians would. So would the Japanese and the Germans. Not the Americans."

He fell to talking about this country from which he has been away so much. "I'm not too worried about the collapse of the economy if we get total peace. There's so much that hasn't been done here. Take the roads. They're an offense to every sensitivity a man ever had. The houses being constructed now—shoddy construction, dung-heaps. We could clean up the rivers.

"We don't know how lucky we are. Just simple things—you can buy land here and you can't do that easily in many other places in the world. I tried to buy some in Switzerland and it's a difficult business. I notice a kind of apprehension here. I don't know why we're so damned concerned and scared."

Many Factors Determine Skin Deterioration

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

No one likes the idea of looking older with each passing decade but we can't do much about it. The speed with which changes occur depends upon heredity the glandular and metabolic make-up, and previous skin damage. The individual who reaches 55 with a peaches and cream skin probably had a mother or father who retained a youthful complexion until late in life.

But that is only a part of the story. The skin mirrors the general health and the complexion is less likely to deteriorate when the individual obtains adequate rest, maintains a stable weight, gets ample out of door exercise, and eats properly. Dissipation shows on the face quickly.

Cleanliness reduces the bacterial count and keeps the pores open. Be gentle with the skin and avoid harsh soaps, strong antiseptics, and squeezing blackheads. Continuous exposure to the sun contributes greatly to early degeneration of the skin.

Wrinkles, changes in pigment, and the leathery texture are more pronounced on the exposed part of the body, demonstrating that ultraviolet light and weather play a greater role in aging the skin than does chronological age. If you don't believe this, look in the mirror and compare the face with the chest or abdomen. The fair skinned suffer more and surface cancers are commoner in this group.

Can anything be done to improve personal appearance? Women use cosmetics to modify the eternal appearance and to hide minor blemishes and add color. Cleansing and cold creams help soften aging skin temporarily.

Nothing will rejuvenate the skin but wrinkles and jowls can be corrected with plastic surgery. There are chemical and mechanical procedures that remove the upper layers of skin to smooth out wrinkles, keratoses, warts, and other benign lesions.

SLOW PULSE

Mrs. F. writes: My 16 year old son's pulse is only 50. The doctor says the boy's heart and health are good. Should we check into this further?

REPLY

Not if the heart and the electrocardiogram are normal. A slow pulse is an asset because the heart works with less effort. It is abnormal only when the heart rate cannot speed up to meet the demands of the body during exertion and excitement. The victim faints whenever he tries to walk or run faster. This occurs when the nervous mechanism is disturbed (heart block), a condition detected with the electrocardiogram.

WEATHER AND PRESSURE

D. H. writes: Is high blood pressure worse in summer or winter?

REPLY

Weather does not influence the reading but extremes in temperature may create extra work for the heart.

EMPHYSEMA

E. R. writes: I never have smoked and seldom have colds yet I developed emphysema. What could have caused it?

REPLY

An inherent weakness of the bronchi and air sacs. The lung tissues lose their elasticity, which leads to shortness of breath and cough. For some reason, this condition is becoming more common.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A man, later identified as Tunis Conquy, was walking down a southern road one day when, caught in an unexpected downpour, he sought shelter in a farmhouse. The friendly folks there invited him to join them for dinner. Said the hostess, "The meat on the plate on the left comes from a North Carolina piggie; the ham on the other plate comes from a little piggie from South Carolina. Which do you prefer?"

Whereupon Mr. Conquy replied (what a way to repay fine old Southern hospitality!): "Either one, ma'am. Any pork in a storm."

A bulletin from a barber college discloses the fact that the hair-trimmers are busting out all over with new ideas. They now have an "M.D. Cut" for doctors, a 'Hustler Cut" for dynamic advertising men, a "Broker Cut" for Wall Street big shots, and an "Economy Cut" for underpaid teachers and librarians. They are also working surreptitiously, it is rumored, on an 'Unkindest Cut of All" — designed for inadequate tippers.

Capital Soon Will Be Back To Normal

A dispatch from Washington describes the political serenity that prevails in the capital. However pleasant, such tranquility is not for long. Congress will reconvene on January 10—and the political storms will be upon us.

The opening flareup is likely to be in the House over the Democratic leadership. Apparently the speakership will go to Representative McCormack of Massachusetts. But impending is the contest between Representatives Bolling of Missouri and Albert of Oklahoma for the floor leadership, with the latter's backers looking ahead to the day when the 70-year-old McCormack steps down.

Following in close order will be the President's message on the State of the Union. The budget message will arrive shortly thereafter. So will the administration's recommendations on foreign trade policy, medical care for the aged under Social Security, tax reform and other matters that can be depended upon to raise Washington's tempo and tempers.

Always present are such old standbys as Khrushchev, Berlin, the Congo and Laos, our balance of international payments, anti-trust actions, the dollar's integrity—and so on.

Not to be forgotten is the fact that 1962 is a Congressional election year and many of the debates on Capitol Hill are certain to be beamed to the voters back home.

Yes, Washington will soon be its old self again.

These Days

An Expert Experts

Fred Warner Neal is reputed to be an expert on Russian affairs. He has been chief of the foreign economic research on Eastern Europe in the State Department. He presided over this country's first cultural relations program with the Soviet Union, and organized the Russian broadcasts of the Voice of America.

This expert, in a pamphlet published by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions by the Fund for the Republic, said:

"During the past fifteen years the Soviet Union has steadily grown not only in economic and military power but also in world influence, while the area dominated by communism has expanded. At the same time, American policy has become wholly enmeshed in a nuclear arms race which, far from promoting our security, has within it the seeds of war and thus of destruction of our whole civilization."

As one reads this paragraph, it is to be presumed that Soviet Russia is performing a noble task by spreading its imperial power by economic and military expansion whereas the United States is performing a criminal act by organizing to defend itself and its allies against conquest by Soviet Russia. Neal apparently does not believe that we are organizing to protect this country from being conquered as Hungary or Tibet have been conquered but rather that we should give in to Russian suzerainty. For instance, he says:

"And a solicitous concern for the very objectives we seek to further makes it necessary to state that the responsibility for today's dangerous international situation must also be shared in no little degree by American policy."

I gather that Neal feels that the United States has pushed Soviet Russia into its ugly attitude. For instance, he says:

"Pushed by fear, ignorance, and ideology, which often add up to false views of the world, the Russians are frequently not only churlish but also in intentional conflict with much of what we stand for at home and abroad. Their insistence on this conflict, partly in the hope of fostering communism throughout the world, is a type of aggression, but in and of itself it is not necessarily military aggression."

But what are the facts? It was the United States which rescued Siberian provinces of Soviet Russia from the Japanese who would in 1918 to 1920 have had no difficulty in walking off with that loot. I was there and watched that performance from beginning to end. It was the United States which sent food to Soviet Russia in the 1920s when the Revolution was collapsing from hunger. It was the United States which gave Soviet Russia $11,000,000,000 to defend itself against conquest by Hitler after the Hitler-Stalin Alliance was broken; it was the United States which brought Soviet Russia into the family of Western nations.

As I read this curious apology for Soviet Russia, I wonder what can possibly be its justification. For instance, Neal says:

"Nowhere in the whole body of Soviet Marxist theory is there the implication that the Soviet Union, for ideological or any other reasons, should itself initiate a war . . . Soviet doctrine foresees communism coming to the world through other means than military conquest."

However, Stalin wrote:

"Under such circumstances, could the Russian Communists have confined their operations within the narrow national limits of the Russian revolution? Certainly not! On the contrary, the whole situation, internal (profound revolutionary crisis) and external (war) pushed them beyond these confines in their work, to transfer their struggles to the international arena, expose the ulcers of imperialism to full view, demonstrate the inevitable collapse of capitalism, defeat social-chauvinism and social-pacifism, and finally overthrow capitalism in their own country and forge a new weapon of struggle for the proletariat, the theory and tactics of the proletarian revolution, in order to lighten for the proletariat of all countries the task of overthrowing capitalism."

If this is not a justification for war, for conquest and infiltration, what is it? I can cite dozens of similar statements in Soviet literature and actually Mao Tze-tung's quarrel with Khrushchev is based on the fact that Khrushchev is betraying the Stalinist concept that Communism can only succeed by constant war. Lenin stated the case simply:

"The proletarian revolution is impossible without the violent destruction of the bourgeois state machine and its replacement by a new one."

Perhaps Fred Warner Neal did not read enough.

Alsop Says 'Unduly Gloomy' Charge Groundless

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

There is a story of the great Field Marshal Smut's first visit to London that seems to gain point with each passing New Year's day.

The time was about halfway between the Boer War and the First World War. Smuts was still a young man, only barely converted from the daring Boer guerrilla commander into loyal subject of the British Empire. He had come on an official visit, to signify his new loyalty, and London was the first great city this veldt-bred man had ever seen.

The boat-train carried him and his escorting officer into the great city late at night, but they were up early, and they had to wait a while for the official car that was to take Smuts to his first appointment. Smuts passed the time keenly studying the ever-changing spectacle of Piccadilly—pre-first World War Piccadilly, remember, with half its traffic still horse-drawn, and its great houses of the eighteenth century yet to be replaced by huge business blocks.

"It won't work; it never can work," said Smuts finally, as he entered the car. And on being asked what on earth would not work, the soldier-philosopher answered: "All this — this London of yours and what's behind it. It's too complicated. It's got beyond human control."

Another aspect of the same problem is illuminated by a story about Bernard Berenson's first visit to Paris after the Second World War. He was already venerably aged and strangely fragile-seeming, but the eye that founded modern scientific art criticism was as observant as ever. Strolling with him one day, this reporter asked casually why Paris was so evidently the most beautiful great city in the world. The old man paused for only an instant to reflect, and then replied decidedly:

"Because it's the last great city which is still on a human scale."

These two anecdotes of the responses of great men to great cities originally came to mind because this reporter had been charged, as sometimes before, with being unduly gloomy. If a personal word is permissible, the charge is groundless in ordinary terms. There is nothing gloomy or pessimistic in reminders that grave problems exist but can be solved by adequate effort. Real pessimism consists in being so appalled by grave problems that you look the other way.

But perhaps it is gloomy to share Berenson's preference for things being "on a human scale," when the scale of everything, from the scientific disciplines to modern weaponry, from the cities we live in to the tasks that face our governments, is growing more and more gigantically inhuman. And maybe this preference for things "on a human scale" is behind the suspicion that there was much wisdom in old Smuts's reaction to Edwardian London — which was so much more humanly controllable than London today!

Perhaps, too, this backward looking preference and this resulting suspicion have other consequences. Perhaps, for instance, they lead to undue emphasis on the continuous acceleration of history which was the subject of a previous report. But consider the Soviet anti-satellite missile of the future, that was forecast in that report. Think of what science has done, in the single key area of weaponry, in the few short years since the primitive A-bomb glared over Hiroshima.

Or consider almost any other aspect of the phenomenon we call progress. They range from the explosion of knowledge, whose sheer power has driven every intellectual discipline in upon itself, all the way to the population explosion which is pushing every nation out against its neighbors.

In the slow-moving world of the past, there were also explosions of a sort. It is well to remember that the population of Cincinnati, Ohio, is almost certainly not much less than the whole human population of the earth in the era before man took to settled agriculture. Thus began the first explosion, which finally produced the first city. And this Jericho, or this Ur-in-Sumer, or this now nameless and forgotten mound of ruins, must have seemed just as alarming and just as complex to the nomadic hunters of its era, as London seemed to Field Marshal Smuts.

But when change was slow, accommodation to each change was automatic. This is not true today, when the processes of change are so rapid, dynamic, and far-reaching that the historic process has itself been accelerated. Event crowds upon event, upheaval upon upheaval, strategic revolution upon strategic revolution. One consequence, in Western societies, has been the lunatic modern gamut of political attitudes, ranging from the vicious and hysterical unrealism of the extreme right to the open advocacy and national surrender by persons of Bertrand Russell's "better Red than dead" persuasion.

But what is a sensible modern political attitude? The only possible answer is neither ambitious nor fully satisfying. "Peg away, face and meet each problem as it comes, and hope for the best while preparing for the worst"—these maxims do not seem quite adequate in a world being rapidly but unforeseeably transformed. But what other sane answer is there?

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NEW PROCEDURE—When the House of Representatives convenes under the fledgling speakership of Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, there will be some changes in procedures.

McCormack will not have the power of his predecessor, the late Sam Rayburn of Texas. Nor will he attempt to gather such power to himself, at least initially. Rayburn maintained a fine balance between personal power and the rights of the House and its membership.

McCormack will share his power with the new House majority leader, majority whip, and assistant whips. He will delegate more authority to the chairmen of the various House committees.

For this latter reason, the American public can look forward to something new coming their way from the House — the televising of important House committee hearings.

Under Rayburn, televising of House committee proceedings was not permitted because Rayburn felt it his duty to protect the membership from the anticipated excesses of a few. He also felt that the dignity of the House would be impaired if the public should be permitted to witness a headline-seeking "circus," which some House hearings of the past have been.

McCormack's attitude is somewhat different. He takes the position that the speaker should not bar committees from publicizing their activities. He's willing to leave it up to each committee chairman to decide whether or not to permit television cameras in their rooms.

Many members of the House have been urging such a course for years. They argue that the Senate, which permits television, is becoming more and more the dominant chamber of Congress and that something must be done to offset this trend. The public awareness of House activities would contribute to this, they claim, giving the House a more nearly equal share in the legislative process.

All that matters is that they went for some reason and maybe something rubbed off on them from another exhibit."

Duncan has been in Russia many times. He said something about them not often heard in this country: "You know, we and the Russians have a great deal in common, really. In fact, the Russians have finally replaced us as the rough people of the world. Back when I was a kid we were considered the roughest people. We had the biggest and best. We were a bit scornful and wore rough-cut clothes. Well, the Russians have taken our places. They wear the rough shoes, the rough-cut jackets. In fact, the Siberians are the Texans of Russia—they've got the biggest and best.

"They, like us, have a great love for family and the same kind of individual warmth and the same materialistic values. Oh, yes, they are materialists. For all their Communism, they've got nothing to offer a man when he succeeds except a bigger car, a better home, longer vacations. Nothing spiritual. They have to find that within themselves as we do.

"The only thing that's different are the soldiers. American soldiers would never, even if they were ordered, take a man out and machine-gun him to death. The Russians would. So would the Japanese and the Germans. Not the Americans."

He fell to talking about this country from which he has been away so much. "I'm not too worried about the collapse of the economy if we get total peace. There's so much that hasn't been done here. Take the roads. They're an offense to every sensitivity a man ever had. The houses being constructed now—shoddy construction, dung-heaps. We could clean up the rivers.

"We don't know how lucky we are. Just simple things—you can buy land here and you can't do that easily in many other places in the world. I tried to buy some in Switzerland and it's a difficult business. I notice a kind of apprehension here. I don't know why we're so damned concerned and scared."

Many Factors Determine Skin Deterioration

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

No one likes the idea of looking older with each passing decade but we can't do much about it. The speed with which changes occur depends upon heredity the glandular and metabolic makeup, and previous skin damage. The individual who reaches 55 with a peaches and cream skin probably had a mother or father who retained a youthful complexion until late in life.

But that is only a part of the story. The skin mirrors the general health and the complexion is less likely to deteriorate when the individual obtains adequate rest, maintains a stable weight, gets ample out of door exercise, and eats properly. Dissipation shows on the face quickly.

Cleanliness reduces the bacterial count and keeps the pores open. Be gentle with the skin and avoid harsh soaps, strong antiseptics, and squeezing blackheads. Continuous exposure to the sun contributes greatly to early degeneration of the skin.

Wrinkles, changes in pigment, and the leathery texture are more pronounced on the exposed part of the body, demonstrating that ultraviolet light and weather play a greater role in aging the skin than does chronological age. If you don't believe this, look in the mirror and compare the face with the chest or abdomen. The fair skinned suffer more and surface cancers are commoner in this group.

Can anything be done to improve personal appearance? Women use cosmetics to modify the eternal appearance and to hide minor blemishes and add color. Cleansing and cold creams help soften aging skin temporarily.

Nothing will rejuvenate the skin but wrinkles and jowls can be corrected with plastic surgery. There are chemical and mechanical procedures that remove the upper layers of skin to smooth out wrinkles, keratoses, warts, and other benign lesions.

TOMORROW: Suggestions from readers.

SLOW PULSE

Mrs. F. writes: My 16 year old son's pulse is only 50. The doctor says the boy's heart and health are good. Should we check into this further?

REPLY

Not if the heart and the electrocardiogram are normal. A slow pulse is an asset because the heart works with less effort. It is abnormal only when the heart rate cannot speed up to meet the demands of the body during exertion and excitement. The victim faints whenever he tries to walk or run faster. This occurs when the nervous mechanism is disturbed (heart block), a condition detected with the electrocardiogram.

WEATHER AND PRESSURE

D. H. writes: Is high blood pressure worse in summer or winter?

REPLY

Weather does not influence the reading but extremes in temperature may create extra work for the heart.

EMPHYSEMA

E. R. writes: I never have smoked and seldom have colds yet I developed emphysema. What could have caused it?

REPLY

An inherent weakness of the bronchi and air sacs. The lung tissues lose their elasticity, which leads to shortness of breath and cough. For some reason, this condition is becoming more common.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A man, later identified as Tunis Conquy, was walking down a southern road one day when, caught in an unexpected downpour, he sought shelter in a farmhouse. The friendly folks there invited him to join them for dinner. Said the hostess, "The meat on the plate on the left comes from a North Carolina piggie; the ham on the other plate comes from a little piggie from South Carolina. Which do you prefer?"

Whereupon Mr. Conquy replied (what a way to repay fine old Southern hospitality!): "Either one, ma'am. Any pork in a storm."

A bulletin from a barber college discloses the fact that the hair-trimmers are busting out all over with new ideas. They now have an "M.D. Cut" for doctors, a 'Hustler Cut" for dynamic advertising men, a "Broker Cut" for Wall Street big shots, and an "Economy Cut" for underpaid teachers and librarians. They are also working surreptitiously, it is rumored, on an 'Unkindest Cut of All" — designed for inadequate tippers.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Eye glasses can be an asset instead of a liability if you learn to think of them as decoration instead of something to apologize for. Choose frames that enhance your features, and wear them proudly.

You can make a work surface of wood if you treat it with boiled linseed oil. Sand the wood clean, then apply hot oil (highly flammable), rubbing it with fine steel wool. Repeat on three consecutive days.

An old fruit crate, if you can obtain one, will make a suitable toy box after you sandpaper rough spots and coat with shellac, for splinter prevention.

Never put a kitchen knife into a flame. Such intense heat may impair the temper of the steel permanently, making it impossible to keep the knife sharp afterwards.

Cheesy Rice Meat Balls

Cheesy Rice and Meat Balls is another delectable combination. Season ½ pound ground beef with salt, pepper, chopped onion and nutmeg, and shape into meat balls. Brown the meat balls in a small amount of butter. Remove the meat, and pour the remaining butter into a 1½ quart casserole. Add 2½ to 3 cups cooked rice, and stir in 1 cup each grated cheddar cheese and sour cream. Place the meat balls on top, cover, and bake 30 minutes at 350°F. Serve this entree, designed for 4, with buttered turnips.

Sandwich Filling

Deviled ham and hard cooked eggs are a grand filling for sandwiches. Combine 3 cans (3 ounces each) deviled ham and 2 hard cooked eggs, chopped fine. Add 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and ¼ teaspoon hot pepper sauce.

WATERCRESS-OYSTER STUFFING: Mix herb-seasoned stuffing according to package directions. Add ½ cup finely chopped watercress and ½ pint (1 cup) drained, chopped, fresh or frozen oysters per package.

A Rice Festival

Rice fits well into autumn meals, whether it be as a hot breakfast cereal, a luncheon or dinner main or side dish ingredient, or a satisfying dessert. Be sure to team your rice with a nutritious body-building food, such as meat, poultry, fish, eggs, and cheese. Or with vitamin rich fruits and vegetables. They'll help provide the important nutrients that rice cannot supply.

Rice casserole-styled entrees are easy-to-make dishes, rating high as a family favorite. The rice serves as a natural "mixer" providing the background for other foods, while lending its own unique texture and flavor.

A Rice and Turkey Casserole, combining two October plentifuls, makes an unusually flavorful entree. Mix 3 cups cooked rice with sliced ripe or pimiento-stuffed green olives. In a separate bowl mix 2 cups diced cooked turkey with a small can of drained, sliced mushrooms. Then place alternate layers of the rice mixture and the turkey mixture in a greased 2-quart casserole, using 3 layers rice and 2 layers turkey. Pour in 1½ cups of a thin white sauce. Garnish with blanched, slivered almonds and soft bread crumbs that have been mixed and moistened with melted butter. Bake 25-30 minutes in a 350°F. oven. Serve with almond-sprinkled broccoli, and perhaps a little cranberry sauce if desired.

Clean the glass window of an oven frequently with a damp cloth dipped in baking soda. Once it's gummed up badly, such glass is very hard to clean.

Honey and sirups are best protected from mold by storing in the refrigerator after opening. Crystals can be dissolved by placing sirup jar in hot water.

Week's Food Economies

The food situation for 1962 presents an optimistic outlook for consumers. Food will be abundant. Food should continue to be a bargain, says Virginia McLuckie, food economist at the Baltimore office of the University of Maryland Department of Markets.

Just before World War II the family food bill took about one fourth of our take-home pay. Today it takes only one fifth, about a five per cent decrease, and this proportion is not expected to increase in 1962.

Protein foods, meat, poultry, fish and eggs take nearly forty per cent of the money spent for food. These major items in the food bill wil be abundant. Slightly more meat per capita is forecast for 1962, with a total consumption of about 161 pounds.

Poultry supplies are generous and expected to continue so in 162. Broilers accounted for 83 per cent of all the chickens eaten last year. Prices for broilers are expected to average a little lower the first few months of 1962 than they were last year.

Egg production in 1962 is expected to be slightly above 1961. An increase in the size of the nation's flock and an increase in rate of production per bird should amount to 2 or 3 more eggs per person in 1962. Egg prices are lower than they were at this time last year.

About as much food fishery products are expected the winter months of 1962 as last year. Retail prices of food fishery products are likely to remain moderately higher this season than last.

Week's Best Buy in fresh vegetables include iceberg lettuce, white potatoes, peppers, cabbage and tomatoes. Canned applesauce, frozen spinach and canned peaches are attractively priced. Boneless chuck roast of beef, bacon, and smoked hams are featured this week. In fruit, grapefruit and bagged apples are the best-buys. Tangerines and Emperor grapes are economically priced.

Spoon Bread

- ⅔ cup cornmeal
- 1 tablespoon flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2⅔ cups milk
- 2⅔ tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 egg yolks,
- 3 egg whites

Combine cornmeal, flour, salt, and milk in top of double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly, until it is consistency of mush. Stir in butter or margarine. Remove from the heat. Cool slightly. Beat egg yolks and blend into cornmeal mixture. Fold in egg whites that have been beaten until stiff. Bake in a 9 by 9 inch baking pan at 375° F. (moderate oven) for 45 minutes. Serve hot with butter. Makes 6 servings.

For variety, make it Cheese Spoon Bread, by adding ½ cup of grated cheese to the mixture before folding in the egg whites.

Steaks For Breakfast

Have you ever served "minute" beef steaks as a breakfast dish? Try them some Sunday morning. Brown the steaks on both sides in lard. Season and cook slowly until done, turning occasionally. Allow 4 to 6 minutes for each side.

APRICOT-ALMOND STUFFING: Mix herb-seasoned stuffing according to package directions. Add one cup steamed apricots, coarsely chopped and ¼ cup chopped almonds.

Make an unusual tray from an old picture frame. Cover plywood with interesting, patterned material and insert it as backing where the picture would normally go.

Country-Club Living

IN THE VIRGIN ISLANDS

Nestled in the blue, whispering waters of the Caribbean, St. Croix (pronounced croy), Virgin Islands, is fast becoming the fashionable U. S. resort in the West Indies!

Approximately 23 miles long and five miles wide, St. Croix was discovered by Columbus in 1493 and was governed under six different flags before it was acquired by the United States in 1917.

Visitors call the island's weather "best in the world." Average temperature is between 70 and 80 degrees — delightful trade winds provide natural air conditioning!

Seven miles from Christiansted, the island's capital, lies the Grapetree Bay area, site of St. Croix's newest, largest resort and 500 acres of beachfront properties.

The Grapetree Bay Hotel, located right on the Caribbean shore, combines country-club living with Danish modern decor. Visitors stay at the hotel's cottages, main-house or guest villas . . . enjoy entertainment every night, water-sport in the bay, sea or free-form pool, golf and tennis.

Five lovely old Danish estates bordered by the sea to the east and sugarloaf mountains to the west, comprise the Grapetree properties. They are being developed for retirees and people who want their vacation homes on the sunny Caribbean isle.

Comfort and the joy of tropical living are combined in the new community on sun-splashed St. Croix.

Pork Liver Is Tops

Pork liver outranks all other foods as a source of iron, the mineral which builds and maintains healthy blood.

Experts advise mothers not to stress good table manners during the pre-school age. Under ordinary conditions the 'manners' improve with age (rather than with scolding).

For Smooth Gravy

Avoid lumps when thickening gravy by adding flour to water in a jar and shaking. Then add it to meat stock or drippings.

Paella A Low Calorie Entree

In her book, "The Gourmet in the Low-Calorie Kitchen," Helen Belinkie suggests a Spanish Seafood Paella as a low calorie entree. The Paella, made with Spanish olive oil, shrimps, lobster, clams, vegetables and rice, adds up to only 290 calories per serving according to Mrs. Belinkie's estimate. Since this is a "one-dish meal," needing only a green salad and fruit to round out the menu, Paella makes an attractive and satisfying dinner for the figure-conscious.

Mad About Mocha

The popular coffeehouses in New York City report that there's a new vogue for Mocha. To make this delectable continental drink American style, combine in a cup 3 heaping teaspoons instant sweet milk cocoa and ½ teaspoon instant coffee. Fill with hot water or hot milk, stir, and top with whipped cream and a sprinkling of cinnamon.

Easy way to test color-fastness: Snip a sliver of the material from a seam and put it in a jar with suds and water of normal washing temperature. Let stand for a few minutes, then shake jar. Even slight water discoloration indicates poor washability.

The Coating Makes The Chop

As clothes make the man, so can a coating of seasoned corn flake crumbs enhance the modest pork chop. Proceed this way for corn crisped pork chops: Dip chops into evaporated milk and then into corn flake crumbs seasoned with Ac'cent, and salt and pepper to taste. Use 1 teaspoon Ac'cent to each cup crumbs (enough for 6 to 8 chops). Bake on an aluminum foil-lined pan, in a 375°F. oven, 50 minutes — no turning needed.

Party Spice Cake

- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon allspice
- 1½ teaspoons nutmeg
- ¾ cup vegetable shortening
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1¼ cups sugar
- ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 3 large eggs
- 1¼ cups milk

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, and spices. Cream thoroughly, the shortening, vanilla, and sugars. Blend in eggs one at a time beating well after each addition. Add milk (room temperature) alternately with the dry ingredients to the creamed mixture. Blend well after each addition (low speed on electric mixer). Turn into a 13 x 9-inch cake pan well greased and lightly floured on the bottom. Push batter well into the corners. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 45 to 55 minutes or until cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean. Cool. Frost with Cinnamon-Cocoa Frosting below.

Food Shopping Guide

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Produce counters will provide bountiful supplies for cost and quality-conscious shoppers this weekend.

Now here's a closer look at foods in plentiful supply in this area:

Attention at meat counters this weekend will turn to a wide variety of minor items. Broilers and fryers will be the top features. Bacon and pork loins will be at attractive prices.

Dairy products continue to be at attractive prices.

At vegetable counters the best buys will be broccoli, old crop cabbage, eggplant, iceberg lettuce, eastern potatoes, spinach, carrots, leafy greens, and rutabagas. Other good buys will be beets, new cabbage, pascal celery, yellow onions, orange type sweet potatoes, broccoli rabe, parsley, dandelion, dill, and peas.

Apples, avocados and limes are the best choices at fruit sections. Also at favorable levels will be coconuts, grapefruit, oranges, and cranberries.

Good fish buys this weekend will include fillets, oysters, lobsters, halibut, and clams.

Sussex Peanut Soup

In honor of the Civil War Centennial, many restaurants in Virginia these days are featuring old-time Tidewater dishes. At the John Marshall Hotel in Richmond, for example, this creamy-rich peanut soup is a specialty: First heat 6 cups milk to scalding. Meantime, blend 4 tablespoons melted butter with 6 tablespoons flour, then slowly stir the hot milk into the flour mixture. Cook, stirring until smooth and thickened. Blend in ⅓ cup (6 tablespoons) peanut butter and ½ teaspoon salt, or to taste; cook 2 or 3 minutes longer. Just before removing from heat, add 3 tablespoons chopped peanuts. Serve at once to 8.

Spanish Steak With Onions

Simmer 2 lbs. onions, thinly sliced, in ⅓ cup Spanish olive oil until soft. As the onions cook, pound ¼ cup flour and 2 teaspoons salt into 2 lbs. chuck or bottom round cut 2 inches thick. Sear meat over high heat separately in 1 tablespoon olive oil until well-browned on both sides, then place meat over onions. Cover tightly, cook over low heat 2 to 3 hours until meat is very tender. Just before serving, sprinkle juice of ½ lemon over meat.

Shrimp Macaroni Salad

- ¾ pound cooked, peeled, cleaned shrimp, fresh or frozen

OR

- 3 cans (4½ ounces each) shrimp
- 2 cups cooked elbow macaroni
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 cup chopped raw cauliflower
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- ½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 3 tablespoons garlic French dressing
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon celery seed
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- Salad Greens
- 3 hard cooked eggs, cut into wedges
- 2 medium tomatoes, cut into sixths

Thaw frozen shrimp or drain and clean canned shrimp, if necessary. Cut large shrimp in half. Combine macaroni, celery, cauliflower, pickle, parsley, and shrimp. Chill. Combine mayonnaise, French dressing, lemon juice, salt, celery seed, onion, and pepper. Add mayonnaise mixture to shrimp mixture and toss lightly. Chill. Serve on salad greens. Garnish with egg and tomato wedges. Serves 6.

Nation's Food Bill To Run $2 Billion More This Year

NEW YORK (UPI)—More persons buying more groceries will run the nation's 1962 food bill to $2 billion more than the 1961 level of $78 billion.

So says the president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America. But stable prices and abundant supplies will continue, said Paul S. Willis, in his annual review.

But keep your walking shoes handy. Robert W. Mueller, editor of Progressive Grocer, said the size of individual markets is increasing as their numbers shrink. An average market now has about 12,000 square feet of selling area, said the trade publication editor. The largest has about 25,000 square feet.

Here's the food outlook in detail.

Predict Record Meat Production

The American Meat Institute, Chicago, predicted record meat production. Beef and pork will be plentiful with more stewing and pot-roasting cuts available. Production of meat is expected to be 29.3 billion pounds. Veal production is expected to remain near the 1961 level and lamb supplies, to drop.

Look for more freeze-dried meats that keep without refrigeration; more boneless and semi-boneless meat cuts; increased portion control providing precut servings; more recipes, menu ideas and pictures in meat advertising; and improved packaging with more cooking and storing directions.

The National Association of Frozen Food Packers, Washington, D.C., forecasts more convenience products and improved packaging. New frozen products already in limited distribution include seasoned ready-to-cook combinations of two or three vegetables; ready-to-heat frozen cooked vegetables with butter and seasonings added; bake-and-serve frozen carrot souffle; in polyethylene bags—small whole potatoes, small whole onions, diced onions, loaves of bread, and flash-frozen grapefruit sections with non-caloric sweetener.

New Frozen Packaging

New frozen food packaging includes rigid plastic box, jar and pan shapes with snap-on, see-through covers. Some are usable for heating foods. New aluminum pan shapes include sea shells for seafood, frying pans for top-stove heating and ridged broiler pans. New sealed pouches for frozen fruit make defrosting quick, easy, and dripless.

In the produce department, fresh fruits and vegetables will continue their seasonal stretch, said the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association. More summer produce, such as sweet corn and strawberries, is becoming available for longer periods than ever, because of improved growing, packing and shipping methods.

Another trend extending into 1962 eliminates waste by trimming carrot, celery and radish tops, cauliflower jacket leaves and inedible parts of greens before shipping. Fresh produce will continue to account for about one-fifth by weight of all the food we eat, the association added.

Rice Tuna Casserole

A Rice-Pea-Tuna Casserole will serve as an attractive and tasty luncheon main dish. Moisten chopped ripe or pimiento-stuffed green olives with a little lemon juice in a casserole. Stir in 1 cup drained tuna, 1½ cups drained cooked peas, and 2½ to 3 cups cooked rice. Sprinkle grated sharp cheese on top and pour in 2 cups of a thin, white sauce. Bake in a 350°F. oven for 20 minutes, or until the top is lightly browned. This casserole for 4 is a meal in itself. Just add a crisp green salad for the final note.

Chocolate is a great treat for cold winter evenings. To make it, measure into the top of a double boiler, ½ cup semi-sweet chocolate bits, 1 cup Sherry, dash of salt and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Cook over hot water, stirring occasionally, until chocolate is melted. Heat 3 cups milk and ½ cup cream to scalding point, then add the chocolate-wine mixture. Beat well. Pour into mugs or cups, top with whipped cream and dust lightly with cinnamon. Serves 6 to 8.

Nation's Food Bill To Run $2 Billion More This Year

NEW YORK (UPI)—More persons buying more groceries will run the nation's 1962 food bill to $2 billion more than the 1961 level of $78 billion.

So says the president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America. But stable prices and abundant supplies will continue, said Paul S. Willis, in his annual review.

But keep your walking shoes handy. Robert W. Mueller, editor of Progressive Grocer, said the size of individual markets is increasing as their numbers shrink. An average market now has about 12,000 square feet of selling area, said the trade publication editor. The largest has about 25,000 square feet.

Here's the food outlook in detail.

Predict Record Meat Production

The American Meat Institute, Chicago, predicted record meat production. Beef and pork will be plentiful with more stewing and pot-roasting cuts available. Production of meat is expected to be 29.3 billion pounds. Veal production is expected to remain near the 1961 level and lamb supplies, to drop.

Look for more freeze-dried meats that keep without refrigeration; more boneless and semi-boneless meat cuts; increased portion control providing precut servings; more recipes, menu ideas and pictures in meat advertising; and improved packaging with more cooking and storing directions.

The National Association of Frozen Food Packers, Washington, D.C., forecasts more convenience products and improved packaging. New frozen products already in limited distribution include seasoned ready-to-cook combinations of two or three vegetables; ready-to-heat frozen cooked vegetables with butter and seasonings added; bake-and-serve frozen carrot souffle; in polyethylene bags—small whole potatoes, small whole onions, diced onions, loaves of bread, and flash-frozen grapefruit sections with non-caloric sweetener.

New Frozen Packaging

New frozen food packaging includes rigid plastic box, jar and pan shapes with snap-on, see-through covers. Some are usable for heating foods. New aluminum pan shapes include sea shells for seafood, frying pans for top-stove heating and ridged broiler pans. New sealed pouches for frozen fruit make defrosting quick, easy, and dripless.

In the produce department, fresh fruits and vegetables will continue their seasonal stretch, said the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association. More summer produce, such as sweet corn and strawberries, is becoming available for longer periods than ever, because of improved growing, packing and shipping methods.

Another trend extending into 1962 eliminates waste by trimming carrot, celery and radish tops, cauliflower jacket leaves and inedible parts of greens before shipping. Fresh produce will continue to account for about one-fifth by weight of all the food we eat, the association added.

Rice Tuna Casserole

A Rice-Pea-Tuna Casserole will serve as an attractive and tasty luncheon main dish. Moisten chopped ripe or pimiento-stuffed green olives with a little lemon juice in a casserole. Stir in 1 cup drained tuna, 1½ cups drained cooked peas, and 2½ to 3 cups cooked rice. Sprinkle grated sharp cheese on top and pour in 2 cups of a thin, white sauce. Bake in a 350°F. oven for 20 minutes, or until the top is lightly browned. This casserole for 4 is a meal in itself. Just add a crisp green salad for the final note.

Chocolate is a great treat for cold winter evenings. To make it, measure into the top of a double boiler, ½ cup semi-sweet chocolate bits, 1 cup Sherry, dash of salt and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon. Cook over hot water, stirring occasionally, until chocolate is melted. Heat 3 cups milk and ½ cup cream to scalding point, then add the chocolate-wine mixture. Beat well. Pour into mugs or cups, top with whipped cream and dust lightly with cinnamon. Serves 6 to 8.

Mr. Tubbs will speak on the topic, 'Together We Build." Following the services there will be an informal tour of the building and a reception in the lower auditorium.

The remodeling, which will give increased space for the Nursery, Beginner, Primary, Junior, Intermediate and Young People's departments of the Sunday School, was planned by the church improvement committee, with Richard C. Piedmont May Get Additional Bus Service

PIEDMONT — People's Transit Company plans to extend bus service to Piedmont in the near future.

Mayor Donald Mellor announced at the meeting of the Town Council Tuesday evening that he had been approached by an official of the company in the matter and he told them he is in favor of the proposal.

The company has made application to the Inter-State Commerce Commission, Washington for permission to disburse and pick-up passengers here.

The mayor also stated it would be advantageous to citizens of the community who desire to ride their buses up the George's Creek without having to walk to Westernport or be taken there in a car to board a bus.

After a discussion of stops for the buses coming into the town, no action was taken. The Osgood Bus stops in front of the G. C. Murphy Company to receive and discharge passengers on Ashfield Street. Councilman Bissett said this creates a hazardous condition but no change was ordered.

Garbage Law Being Enforced In Piedmont

PIEDMONT — Police have started a drive on persons who are depositing garbage in unauthorized places.

Only about six persons are obtaining garbage cards on the two streets near the Potomac River. The police will investigate places that do not obtain garbage cards.

The sale of garbage cards which are issued quarterly has dropped from 250 to 480 according to Joseph Maybury, city clerk. So far for this quarter only 125 have been obtained.

Mayor Mellor announced that Tuesday evening January 16, 8 p.m. is the deadline for receiving bids for construction of intercepting sewers, regulator chambers, force mains and pumping facilities.

At that time bids will be publicly opened and read. A representative of Robert T. Regester Engineering Firm of Baltimore who drew up the plans will be present. The town has 60 days to award the contract.

Councilman James Bissett reported a manhole loose on West Fairview Street, and it was ordered repaired.

The Mayor said he is greatly impressed with the trial lights erected by Potomac Edison. They brighten the street with 20,000 lumes, twice as much as the present lights downtown, he said. The cost would be twice as much as hte ones now in use.

After a meeting of the finance committee it will be ascertained whether the town will be able to finance the increased lighting facilities, council areed.

Why so many farmers and ranchers plant money in U.S. Savings Bonds

Stop by a county seat bank any Saturday morning and you'll find farmers and ranchers at the Savings Bond window.

Ever since the Savings Bond Program began, these folks have been among its best customers. In fact ⅓ of all cash reserves owned by U.S. farmers and ranchers is invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Bonds for Business

Bonds owned by the millions of people who run our farms have their work cut out for them. They replace machinery. Pay for new land. Provide insurance against the risks of farming.

They get personal assignments, too, like replacing the old homestead, sending the kids to college, and making life more comfortable when the tractor lumbers into the barn for the last time.

Why they keep U.S. Bonds "down on the farm"

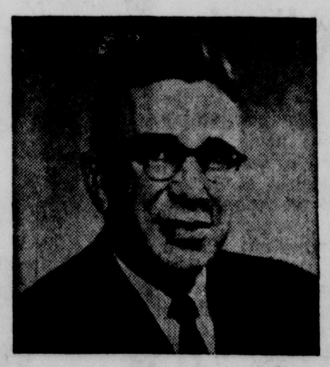

U.S. Savings Bonds are a "crop that never fails," guaranteed by the U.S. Government to grow. $18.75 becomes $25 in 7 years, 9 months. In 10 more years, it becomes $36.25. They can be cashed in anytime, with interest. And if they're lost or destroyed, the Treasury Department replaces them free.

Every U.S. Bond you buy is an investment in Peace. What better way to help your government help you enjoy the things you're saving for?

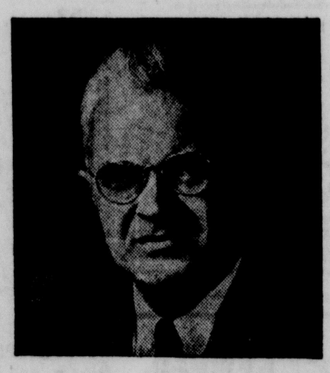

Why America's Prominent Farm Groups Support The Savings Bond Program

James G. Patton, President, National Farmers Union, says: "Savings Bonds are an excellent means of providing for a family's security, and will continue to be a part of our efforts toward a better agriculture and a stronger nation."

Chas. B. Shuman, President, American Farm Bureau Federation, says: "Farmers have always been strong supporters of The Savings Bond Program. Their current investment of $5 billion is a tribute both to their thrift habits and to Bonds."

Herschel D. Newsom, Master, The National Grange, says: "Savings Bonds are an investment in America. Farmers—like all Americans—buy them, assured that they are making an indestructible investment."

Allegany Defeats Altoona, LaSalle Posts Seventh Straight Win

Alco Quint Scores 4th Win, 49-41

350 Witness Slow Contest; Altoona's Zandy Scores 29

A scrappy Allegany High quint, carrying the fight to their much taller opponents, defeated Bishop Guilfoyle of Altoona, Pa., last night on the Campobello court before a small crowd of approximately 350 fans. The score was 49 to 41.

Extending their home court winning streak to seven games, three this season, Coach Chet Payne's Campers chalked up their fourth triumph in six decisions. The loss was the second in nine games for Coach John Hyder's Altoona cagers.

Allegany moved in front to stay at 6:50 of the second period when Roger Flanagan's one-hander put the Campers ahead, 10-9 after a slow first quarter which ended with the score tied 6-6.

Contest Slow-Paced

The contest was slow-paced throughout with Allegany controlling the ball and forcing the visitors into numerous mistakes despite the outstanding efforts of Altoona's 6-6 Len Zandy who scored 29 of the losers' 41 points.

It was the sharp-shooting Flanagan who kept the Campers in the game in the early moments when the score was knotted at 4, 6 and 8, tallying eight of Allegany's first 10 points.

A pair of goals and a foul by Zandy cut the lead and the half found the Campers ahead, 20-16.

In the third stanza, after a rebound shot by Zandy sliced the margin to 20-18, Allegany came back with baskets by Jimmy Bell and Larry Snyder and a pair of foul shots by Flanagan and Cox to offset two more goals by Zandy. Snyder's jump shot made it 28-23 and Davis hit with a one-hander to make it 30-25 at the end of the quarter after red-headed Mike Irwin connected for his only basket for Altoona.

Outscore Opponents

In the fourth period the Campers outscored Altoona, 19-16, to hike their margin, hitting on 9 of 13 free throws as the visitors began to foul in an effort to get the ball from Allegany's controlling tactics.

The smooth - working Zandy, deadly under the boards, was the whole show for the Pennsylvanians, taking scoring honors for the game with his 29 points on 13 goals and 3-3 at the foul line.

Zandy, however, was outplayed consistently in the jumps and under the Altoona boards by Davis, a 5-11 center with coiled springs in his legs. Davis paced the Allegany scoring with 14 points, followed closely by Cox and Flanagan with 13 and 12 respectively.

Hoff Fouls Out

Bill Hoff, Altoona forward, exited on personals with 1:43 to play in the final period.

In the preliminary tilt, Bishop Guilfoyle's junior varsity handed the Allegany Jayvees their first setback, 52-43, despite a 19-21 performance at the foul line by the Little Campers. The lineups:

WASHINGTON (AP)—The University of Maryland, paced by Jerry Greenspan's 17 points, beat George Washington 67-56 in basketball Wednesday night.

Joe Adamitis, George Washington's 6-foot-7 center, had 25 points for the losers.

Adamitis pushed GW off to a 3-0 lead with a field goal and foul shot in the opening minutes, but Maryland came back quickly, and a Greenspan field goal put the Terps ahead 8-7.

Maryland led 35-32 at half time.

Bob Eicher, Maryland's junior guard, was second high scorer for the visitors with 15 points, and a defensive standout.

George Washington came within one point of Maryland midway through the second half, but never succeeded in tying the score. Mike Herron's set shot for GW put the score at 47-46. But Bruce Kelleher, who had 12 points, promptly hit for two quick Maryland field goals.

Maryland closed with a scoring burst, hitting for six points while George Washington was scoring only one.

It was Maryland's fourth win and George Washington's sixth setback. Both teams have played nine games.

Hunters Slay 6,549 Deer In State In 1961

Bag For Regular Season Was 6,070

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The State Department of Game and Inland Fish reported Wednesday that unofficial returns indicate the 1961 deer kill in the state exceeded the record set last year.

Charles H. Milton Jr., chief game warden, said the unofficial total for the year is 6,549 — considerably above the record 6,182 deer killed during 1960.

Milton said hunters got 1,366 deer during a special three-day doe season in 12 Maryland counties, Dec. 28-30. Worcester County hunters led the other subdivisions with 285 kills while Dorchester County recorded 197 during the special season, and Kent 179.

The game warden said in earlier efforts, hunters killed 4,218 deer during the firearms season, Dec. 2-9; 212 during the bow and arrow season, Oct. 16-Nov. 14, and 274 during another special anterless season in six Eastern Shore counties.

The regular season total of 6,070 was boosted to the new record with the addition of 442 kills at Aberdeen Proving Ground during the period Dec. 11-30 and 37 kills during a special season at the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club in Washington County.

The game warden said the 6,549 total is "99 per cent accurate" but the official tabulation is still under way and there could be some change.

Dietzel Will Not Discuss Army Offer

Arrives With Squad From Bowl Victory

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Football Coach Paul Dietzel of Louisiana State University Wednesday brushed aside questions whether he will go to West Point.

He arrived by plane with his squad from their Orange Bowl victory in Miami.

"I don't have anything to say, I really don't," Dietzel told newsmen.

Dietzel was asked whether he would fly to West Point Thursday to discuss an offer to take over the head coaching job there.

"That's what I read in the newspapers," he said before leaving for his home.

The Army hopes to announce Thursday the 38-year-old coach, will sign a five-year contract at a reported $20,000 a year.

His LSU contract, at a current $18,500 a year, has four years to run.

A member of the LSU Board of Supervisors, which has been waiting for definite word whether Dietzel wanted a release from his contract, hinted Wednesday the university was ready to make a higher offer to Dietzel.

Percy Roberts, board vice chairman, said he believes there is still a chance Dietzel will choose to remain at LSU, where he has enjoyed great success.

"I'm sure the board would seriously consider further remunerations," Roberts added.

Allegany Defeats Altoona, LaSalle Posts Seventh Straight Win

350 Witness Slow Contest; Altoona's Zandy Scores 29

A scrappy Allegany High quint, carrying the fight to their much taller opponents, defeated Bishop Guilfoyle of Altoona, Pa., last night on the Campobello court before a small crowd of approximately 350 fans. The score was 49 to 41.

Extending their home court winning streak to seven games, three this season, Coach Chet Payne's Campers chalked up their fourth triumph in six decisions. The loss was the second in nine games for Coach John Hyder's Altoona cagers.

Allegany moved in front to stay at 6:50 of the second period when Roger Flanagan's one-hander put the Campers ahead, 10-9 after a slow first quarter which ended with the score tied 6-6.

Contest Slow-Paced

The contest was slow-paced throughout with Allegany controlling the ball and forcing the visitors into numerous mistakes despite the outstanding efforts of Altoona's 6-6 Len Zandy who scored 29 of the losers' 41 points.

It was the sharp-shooting Flanagan who kept the Campers in the game in the early moments when the score was knotted at 4, 6 and 8, tallying eight of Allegany's first 10 points.

After Flanagan's fourth basket put the Alco quint ahead to stay, Jimmy Cox and Kenny Davis took up the scoring to build the margin to 17-11 with 2:52 remaining in the first half.

A pair of goals and a foul by Zandy cut the lead and the half found the Campers ahead, 20-16.

In the third stanza, after a rebound shot by Zandy sliced the margin to 20-18, Allegany came back with baskets by Jimmy Bell and Larry Snyder and a pair of foul shots by Flanagan and Cox to offset two more goals by Zandy. Snyder's jump shot made it 28-23 and Davis hit with a one-hander to make it 30-25 at the end of the quarter after red-headed Mike Irwin connected for his only basket for Altoona.

Outscore Opponents

In the fourth period the Campers outscored Altoona, 19-16, to hike their margin, hitting on 9 of 13 free throws as the visitors began to foul in an effort to get the ball from Allegany's controlling tactics.

The smooth - working Zandy, deadly under the boards, was the whole show for the Pennsylvanians, taking scoring honors for the game with his 29 points on 13 goals and 3-3 at the foul line.

Zandy, however, was outplayed consistently in the jumps and under the Altoona boards by Davis, a 5-11 center with coiled springs in his legs. Davis paced the Allegany scoring with 14 points, followed closely by Cox and Flanagan with 13 and 12 respectively.

Hoff Fouls Out

Bill Hoff, Altoona forward, exited on personals with 1:43 to play in the final period.

In the preliminary tilt, Bishop Guilfoyle's junior varsity handed the Allegany Jayvees their first setback, 52-43, despite a 19-21 performance at the foul line by the Little Campers. The lineups:

Hunters Slay 6,549 Deer In State In 1961

Bag For Regular Season Was 6,070

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The State Department of Game and Inland Fish reported Wednesday that unofficial returns indicate the 1961 deer kill in the state exceeded the record set last year.

Charles H. Milton Jr., chief game warden, said the unofficial total for the year is 6,549 — considerably above the record 6,182 deer killed during 1960.

Milton said hunters got 1,366 deer during a special three-day doe season in 12 Maryland counties, Dec. 28-30. Worcester County hunters led the other subdivisions with 285 kills while Dorchester County recorded 197 during the special season, and Kent 179.

The game warden said in earlier efforts, hunters killed 4,218 deer during the firearms season, Dec. 2-9; 212 during the bow and arrow season, Oct. 16-Nov. 14, and 274 during another special anterless season in six Eastern Shore counties.

The regular season total of 6,070 was boosted to the new record with the addition of 442 kills at Aberdeen Proving Ground during the period Dec. 11-30 and 37 kills during a special season at the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club in Washington County.

The game warden said the 6,549 total is "99 per cent accurate" but the official tabulation is still under way and there could be some change.

Dietzel Will Not Discuss Army Offer

Arrives With Squad From Bowl Victory

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Football Coach Paul Dietzel of Louisiana State University Wednesday brushed aside questions whether he will go to West Point.

He arrived by plane with his squad from their Orange Bowl victory in Miami.

"I don't have anything to say, I really don't," Dietzel told newsmen.

Dietzel was asked whether he would fly to West Point Thursday to discuss an offer to take over the head coaching job there.

"That's what I read in the newspapers," he said before leaving for his home.

The Army hopes to announce Thursday the 38-year-old coach, will sign a five-year contract at a reported $20,000 a year.

His LSU contract, at a current $18,500 a year, has four years to run.

A member of the LSU Board of Supervisors, which has been waiting for definite word whether Dietzel wanted a release from his contract, hinted Wednesday the university was ready to make a higher offer to Dietzel.

Percy Roberts, board vice chairman, said he believes there is still a chance Dietzel will choose to remain at LSU, where he has enjoyed great success.

"I'm sure the board would seriously consider further remunerations," Roberts added.

Law's Ailing Pitching Arm Passes Two Examinations

VERNON LAW

Vern Looks Forward To 1962 Campaign With Renewed Hope

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Right-hander Vernon Law looked forward to the 1962 National League baseball season with renewed hope Wednesday, buoyed by encouraging medical reports concerning an injury to his pitching arm.

However, his boss—Pittsburgh Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown —adopted a wait-and-see position after reviewing reports from two specialists who examined Law twice this morning.

"It's like a guy whose broken rib hurts him only when he breathes," Brown said, commenting on Law's ailing arm.

"I've got to be as realistic as possible," Brown continued. "Until Vernon throws over a period of time — who knows? I don't mean to be pessimistic, but I think we will have to wait and see. If anyone can, and deserves, to make a comeback, it has to be Vernon."

Law agreed with Brown that the best way to find out if his arm has recovered is to test it under actual fire. But he doesn't plan to do that until sometime next month when he reports early to the Florida training base.

Law Is Cautious

"It's no fun pitching with a sore arm," Law admitted. "And I don't intend doing it either. I want to make sure it's okay."

It was on a chilly day last April 29 while Law was pitching against the Reds in Cincinnati that something "snapped" in his right shoulder. He tried taking his regular pitching turn, but more often than not he was hit freely by opposing batsmen. Soon after the first All-Star game in July, manager Danny Murtaugh put him on the disabled list. As it turned out, Vernon was through for the year with a dismal 3-4 record.

The defending world champion Pirates played out the season and finished in sixth place. The consensus was that Law's absence was the big difference. In 1960 when the Pirates won their first pennant in 33 years, the veteran hurler won 20 games and was named winner of the Cy Young Award, emblematic of the top pitcher in the majors.

To See Third Specialist

Law will be in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday to undergo still another arm examination by a third specialist, Dr. Judd Wilson. Then he plans to return to his home in Boise, Idaho, to "start getting ready" for the training grind.

Dyer Award For Mantle

Mickey Voted Most Courageous Athlete

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees will be honored as the year's most courageous athlete Tuesday when he receives the Eddie Dyer Award at the second annual Houston Major League Baseball Dinner.

The award, named after the former St. Louis Cardinals manager and Houston native, will be given for the first time.

Mantle injured his knee in the 1951 World Series and has to be taped from ankle to hip before each game. He also suffered from a bone infection.

A committee of the Houston Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America chose Mantle for the award because of his efforts in overcoming injuries to play baseball.

The Yankee outfielder hit .317 during the 1961 season and had 54 homeruns. He has signed a 1962 contract for $85,000.

Billy Hunter Will Manage Bluefield

BALTIMORE (AP) — Billy Hunter, former American League baseball shortstop, has rejoined the Baltimore Orioles in the front office.

The 33-year-old Hunter will manage Baltimore's Bluefield, W.Va., entry in the Appalachian League next season. He also will be on the staff of the minor league training camp at Thomasville, Ga., as well as be given special scouting assignments by the farm department.

Hunter ended his baseball playing with San Diego of the Pacific Coast League in 1959. Before that, he had played with the old St. Louis Browns, the Orioles, Yankees, Kansas City and Cleveland.

Ground Broken By Colt .45s

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Paul Richards and city and county officials blasted holes in the ground with Colt .45 revolvers Wednesday at groundbreaking ceremonies for major league baseball's first all-weather stadium.

Excavation work got under way at the site of the $22 million dome-covered stadium that in 1963 will be the home of the National League Houston Colts.

Firing the Colt .45s were Richards, general manager of the Houston team which begins National League play this year; County Judge Bill Elliott, Craig Cullinan, president of the Houston Sports Association; and city councilmen and Harris County commissioners.

NFL Players Elect Retzlaff As President

Want Scoreboard As Official Clock

HOLLYWOOD BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The National Football Players Association urged on Wednesday that the scoreboard clock record official time for the benefit of players and spectators.

The players also endorsed the current faceguard used in professional football and chose Pete Retzlaff of the Philadelphia Eagles as association president.

Retzlaff succeeds Kyle Rote of the New York Giants. Rote was named vice president although he said he had not decided yet whether he would play again next season.

The players elected John Reger of the Pittsburgh Steelers as secretary-treasurer. Named to serve on the executive committee were Eddie LeBaron and Bill Howton of the Dallas Cowboys and Bill Pellington of the Baltimore Colts.

Making the scoreboard clock official would "prevent confusion on the field" such as occurred in the Chicago-Cleveland and Dallas-Pittsburgh games the past season, the players said.

The record of the game's playing minutes now is kept by an official on the field and the scoreboard clock, although often accurate, is not official.

Law's Ailing Pitching Arm Passes Two Examinations

Vern Looks Forward To 1962 Campaign With Renewed Hope

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Righthander Vernon Law looked forward to the 1962 National League baseball season with renewed hope Wednesday, buoyed by encouraging medical reports concerning an injury to his pitching arm.

However, his boss—Pittsburgh Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown —adopted a wait-and-see position after reviewing reports from two specialists who examined Law twice this morning.

"It's like a guy whose broken rib hurts him only when he breathes," Brown said, commenting on Law's ailing arm.

"I've got to be as realistic as possible," Brown continued. "Until Vernon throws over a period of time — who knows? I don't mean to be pessimistic, but I think we will have to wait and see. If anyone can, and deserves, to make a comeback, it has to be Vernon."

Law agreed with Brown that the best way to find out if his arm has recovered is to test it under actual fire. But he doesn't plan to do that until sometime next month when he reports early to the Florida training base.

Law Is Cautious

"It's no fun pitching with a sore arm," Law admitted. "And I don't intend doing it either. I want to make sure it's okay."

It was on a chilly day last April 29 while Law was pitching against the Reds in Cincinnati that something "snapped" in his right shoulder. He tried taking his regular pitching turn, but more often than not he was hit freely by opposing batsmen. Soon after the first All-Star game in July, manager Danny Murtaugh put him on the disabled list. As it turned out, Vernon was through for the year with a dismal 3-4 record.

The defending world champion Pirates played out the season and finished in sixth place. The consensus was that Law's absence was the big difference. In 1960 when the Pirates won their first pennant in 33 years, the veteran hurler won 20 games and was named winner of the Cy Young Award, emblematic of the top pitcher in the majors.

To See Third Specialist

Law will be in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday to undergo still another arm examination by a third specialist, Dr. Judd Wilson. Then he plans to return to his home in Boise, Idaho, to "start getting ready" for the training grind.

Dyer Award For Mantle

Mickey Voted Most Courageous Athlete

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees will be honored as the year's most courageous athlete Tuesday when he receives the Eddie Dyer Award at the second annual Houston Major League Baseball Dinner.

The award, named after the former St. Louis Cardinals manager and Houston native, will be given for the first time.

Mantle injured his knee in the 1951 World Series and has to be taped from ankle to hip before each game. He also suffered from a bone infection.

A committee of the Houston Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America chose Mantle for the award because of his efforts in overcoming injuries to play baseball.

The Yankee outfielder hit .317 during the 1961 season and had 54 homeruns. He has signed a 1962 contract for $85,000.

BALTIMORE (AP)—J. Frank Cashen, general manager of Baltimore Raceway and the Bel Air Race Track, has resigned the dual position to accept a job with a local brewery.

Both the raceway and Bel Air recently entered into an operational agreement with the state's three major thoroughbred tracks, under which Bowie, Laurel and Pimlico will take over their racing dates.

NFL Players Elect Retzlaff As President

Want Scoreboard As Official Clock

HOLLYWOOD BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The National Football Players Association urged on Wednesday that the scoreboard clock record official time for the benefit of players and spectators.

The players also endorsed the current faceguard used in professional football and chose Pete Retzlaff of the Philadelphia Eagles as association president.

Retzlaff succeeds Kyle Rote of the New York Giants. Rote was named vice president although he said he had not decided yet whether he would play again next season.

The players elected John Reger of the Pittsburgh Steelers as secretary-treasurer. Named to serve on the executive committee were Eddie LeBaron and Bill Howton of the Dallas Cowboys and Bill Pellington of the Baltimore Colts.

Making the scoreboard clock official would "prevent confusion on the field" such as occurred in the Chicago-Cleveland and Dallas-Pittsburgh games the past season, the players said.

The record of the game's playing minutes now is kept by an official on the field and the scoreboard clock, although often accurate, is not official.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Charles S. (Wink) Simmons has resigned as business manager of athletics at West Virginia University, it was announced Wednesday.

PLYMOUTH

Market Slightly Higher In More Active Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—Strength in the rail averages featured an irregularly higher and more active stock market Wednesday.

The carriers gained 0.83 in the Standard & Poor's index and 4.33 in the Dow-Jones average, the biggest jump in each since last Oct. 4.

Every rail but one advanced in the DJ and 13 of the 20 rose a point or more with Norfolk & Western up 3 on a bright forecast for 1962.

The sweeping gain for the carriers was ascribed by market observers to heavy new year reinvestment demand for this long depressed group, based on the belief it will benefit substantially from the nation's continuing business and economic recovery.

Dow-Jones industrials tacked on 1.30 and Standard & Poor's 500 stocks rose 0.17. Trading climbed to 3,590,000 shares from a 2½ month low of 3,120,000 in the prior session.

Pivotal industrial features included Alcoa, Anaconda, American Telephone, General Foods, United Aircraft and U.S. Steel all up at least a point. American Tobacco was down 1 along with Procter & Gamble. Eastman Kodak fell 1 ⅛. Houston Lighting featured a soft utility group which fell 0.45 in the DJ.

The market broadened with a total of 1,323 issues traded. Of these 660 advanced, 19 hitting 1961-62 highs, and 456 declined, 11 to new lows.

Market Slightly Higher In More Active Trading

NEW YORK (UPI)—Strength in the rail averages featured an irregularly higher and more active stock market Wednesday.

The carriers gained 0.83 in the Standard & Poor's index and 4.33 in the Dow-Jones average, the biggest jump in each since last Oct. 4.

Every rail but one advanced in the DJ and 13 of the 20 rose a point or more with Norfolk & Western up 3 on a bright forecast for 1962.

The sweeping gain for the carriers was ascribed by market observers to heavy new year reinvestment demand for this long depressed group, based on the belief it will benefit substantially from the nation's continuing business and economic recovery.

Dow-Jones industrials tacked on 1.30 and Standard & Poor's 500 stocks rose 0.17. Trading climbed to 3,590,000 shares from a 2½ month low of 3,120,000 in the prior session.

Pivotal industrial features included Alcoa, Anaconda, American Telephone, General Foods, United Aircraft and U.S. Steel all up at least a point. American Tobacco was down 1 along with Procter & Gamble. Eastman Kodak fell 1 ⅛. Houston Lighting featured a soft utility group which fell 0.45 in the DJ.

The market broadened with a total of 1,323 issues traded. Of these 660 advanced, 19 hitting 1961-62 highs, and 456 declined, 11 to new lows.

Navy Awards ABL Contract For $9,600,900

Solid Propellants Research Involved

Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth yesterday notified both U.S. Senators from Maryland and Rep. Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland's Sixth Congressional District that the Bureau of Naval Weapons is awarding the Hercules Powder Company of Wilmington, Del., a new $9,600,900 contract.

This contract is being awarded to Hercules for continued research and development effort on solid propellants for Polaris. The contract will be performed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory near here.

Senators John Marshall Butler and J. Glenn Beall and Rep. Mathias were notified that this is an amendment to an existing contract.

On December 7, Senator Beall announced that he had been notified that Hercules had been awarded a $4,493,000 contract for research and development on solid propellants to be performed at ABL.

An ABL spokesman last night said that the contract allows a continuation of a program already in operation and is not an expansion.

Polaris is a fleet ballistic missile system designed to launch nuclear warheads from submerged submarines toward targets about 1,600 miles away. Much of the research and development on the Polaris project has been done at ABL.

County Voters Total 37,445 As Year Opens

Allegany County had 37,445 registered voters when the new year began Monday, according to John R. Kelly, Democratic registrar and chief clerk of the County Board of Election Supervisors.

Ther ewere 17 new registrants during December but the names of 40 deceased voters were stricken off the books during the same period.

The 37,445 registrants as of January 1 included 37,079 white persons, 363 Negroes and three of other color. Republicans outnumbered Democrats in Allegany County by 4,635, 20,911 to 16,276. The Republicans included 10,599 women and 10,312 men while the Democrats counted 8,310 men and 7,966 women.

Also registered as of January 1 were 250 independents, 176 men and 74 women, who declined political preference; six Socialists, four men and two women, and two members of other parties, one man and one woman.

Of the new registrants last month, 10, seven men and three women, signed up as Republicans, and seven, five men and two women, as Democrats. Those removed from the books because of death included 20 Democrats, 19 Republicans and one independent.

Other December activity included nine transfers from one district or precinct to another, one change of name only, three removed by request so they can register eleswhere and one change of political affiliation from independent to Democrat.

Mr. Kelly and Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar, are on duty for registration in the Court House basement from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The books will remain open until April 14, when they will be closed until after the May 15 primary election.

4,036 Drivers Lose Licenses On Point System

BALTIMORE (AP) — The first year of a point penalty system in Maryland cost 4,036 drivers their licenses to operate motor vehicles.

Commissioner John R. Jewell reported Wednesday that a total of 111,461 drivers had points assessed against them on their record during 1961.

Drivers involved in moving traffic violations are assessed points ranging from one to 12. Revocations are mandatory for those who compile the maximum within a two-year period.

Jewell reported that 489 drivers had their licenses suspended for accumulating eight points.

Prior to enactment of the point system, the Department of Motor Vehicles had discretion in suspending or revoking driver licenses.

Out of the 4,036 revoked last year, 3,250 belonged to convicted drunken drivers.

Parent-Child Registration Set For Friday

Will Be Held In Eight Schools

Parents of children enrolled in eight public elementary schools in and near Cumberland have been asked to register Friday at the schools for the parent-child study program, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the Allegany County schools.

Schools where registration will be held Friday are Centre Street, John Humbird, Johnson Heights, Mt. Royal, Penn Avenue, Virginia Avenue and West Side schools, all in Cumberland, and Parkside School in LaVale.

It is planned that the parent-child study programs will begin in these eight schools the week of Monday, January 15, and end after seven sessions by Friday, March 2.

Between 200 and 250 parents were enrolled in the first 10 groups, which met weekly for seven weeks in the fall.

Three women have been designated as leaders for these eight forthcoming groups. Mrs. Joseph M. Steger will be the leader at Parkside, Johnson Heights and Penn Avenue. Mrs. Fern Wilson will handle the groups at JoJhn Humbird, Mt. Royal and West Side. Mrs. John Oglebay will be in charge of the groups Centre Street and Virginia Avenue.

The third segment, or spring session, for the remaining schools, will begin on March 19 and end on May 4.

"We feel that the parent-child study program is a most important program, primarily in dispensing to parents the scientific information available in growth, development and understanding of the behavior of children," Mr. Higgins said.

"Secondly, and probably as important, we feel that it is one of the strong areas of public relationships with our school community," Mr. Higgins added.

Firm Says New Savings, Loan Law Is Illegal

BALTIMORE (AP) — The constitutionality of a new law regulating Maryland's savings and loan associations was challenged Wednesday by a suburban Washington firm and its affiliate.

A suit filed in Baltimore Circuit Court in behalf of First Continental Savings and Loan Association and its affiliate, the First Continental Mortgage Corp. of Miami, Fla., claimed state actiona gainst savings and loan firms since last June was illegal.

The Miami affiliate holds part of the stock in the savings firm, whose office is in (Wisconsin Ave.) Chevy Chase.

The new regulatory law was enacted last June during a special session of the legislature. Since that time, at least a dozen firms operating in Maryland have been taken to court by state authorities.

The suit, filed by attorneys M. William Adelson and Douglas N. Sharetts, noted that Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan and Albert W. Ward, administrator of the regulatory act, planned to act against First Continental.

A spokesman in the attorney general's office said action against the firm was sought late Wednesday in the Montgomery County Circuit Court in Rockville.

First Continental asked the Baltimore Circuit Court to issue injunctions to prevent action against it by Finan and Ward and to declare the law approved in a special session invalid and void.

Goldstein To File On 'Lucky Day'

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Politicians, like baseball players, have their superstitions.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein has arranged for the secretary of state to open his office Saturday so Goldstein can file for Democratic nomination to a second term.

Why not some other day?

"Because Jan. 6 is the same date I filed four years ago," Goldstein said. "That's my lucky day."

Goldstein said he will file at 2 p.m., the same hour as his 1958 filing. Secretary of State Lloyd L. Simpkins, also a politician, agreed to drive from his home at Princess Anne to open the office, which normally is closed on Saturday.

Goldstein said it wasn't all superstition. "I also want all my family present, and Saturday is the only day my son, Philip (a student at McDonogh in Baltimore can get off," he said.

Gov. Tawes, who plans to file for renomination Monday as head of the ticket Goldstein will run on, indicated that his choice of date isn't incidental either.

"Monday has always been my lucky day," the governor commented.

Warm Weather Cancels Skating At Rec Areas

Yesterday's "warm" temperature of 52 degrees caused ice skating to be canceled last night at Gephart School and on the C&O Canal, according to C. Eugene Mason, city recreation director.

Mr. Mason said the Gephart rink was in excellent condition yesterday morning, but the warm weather caused the ice to melt. Last night was to have been the first evening of skating at the Frederick Street site.

Efforts will be made to flood both areas to insure smooth skating surfaces, Mr. Mason said, but a cold spell will be needed before skating again will be possible.

Mr. Mason emphasized that the C&O Canal at Offutt is unsafe for skating and advised skaters against using the area.

The Weather Bureau calls for the warm weather to continue through tomorrow.

Hazelwood Bid On Gephart School Is Low

$163,735 Offered On New Addition

An apparent low bid of $163,735 was submitted yesterday by the George F. Hazelwood Company for construction of an addition to the Gephart Elementary School on Frederick Street.

The Hazelwood price was just $565 less than the $164,300 offer of the George Construction Company. The John I. Vandegrift Company, which had submitted the low bid December 5 when all three proposals were rejected, was high yesterday at $167,700.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, who opened the bids yesterday, had recommended rejection of the bids December 5 because the lowest proposal was some $14,000 more than the County Board of Education had estimated spending on the Gephart addition.

The specifications were revised after the December bid rejection and the plans were simplified in some respects without making any changes in the number of rooms in the addition.

Mr. Webster said later yesterday that he is recommending acceptance of the low Hazelwood bid and has written the five members of the County Board of Education asking them to express their views.

Hazelwood had lopped $35,905 off its earlier high bid of $199,640. The George bid yesterday was $22,645 lower than in December. The Vandegrift price was $14,094 below the $181,794 low figure of December 5.

Four alternates were submitted with the bids. Three of them involved changes in acoustical features and the fourth a variation in the wall construction.

The Gephart addition includes construction of three classrooms, division of the present auditorium into two classrooms, a new principal's office, a health room and a general purpose room.

West Virginia Legislature To Stay Busy

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The large number of items Gov. W. W. Barron wants the legislature to consider this year will force a departure from custom when the lawmakers convene next Wednesday.

Normally, during an even-year 30-day budget session, the legislature considers the budget bill on opening day and adjourns until the following week. But in his call last weekend, Barron listed 30 matters he wants the legislature to study. Many of them, such as the coal pipeline proposal, are controversial.

The legislative leaders—Senate President Howard W. Carson, D-Fayette, and House Speaker Julius W. Singleton Jr., D-Monongalia—reported that a large packet of bills will be introduced and referred to committees on opening day. They expect to schedule sessions the remainder of the first week.

One proposal to be studied would grant land condemnation rights to companies wishing to build coal-carrying pipelines in West Virginia. The battle lines already are shaping up with railroad management and labor on one side and the coal industry on the other.

Singleton said an effort will be made next Wednesday to sidetrack consideration of the pipeline bill by asking for an interim committee study until the 1963 legislative session. He has been informed that Del. Ted H. Rollins, D-Taylor, will introduce such a resolution.

County Students Assist Jr. Red Cross Program

Students of 33 Allegany County public and parochial elementary schools filled 462 boxes for the American Junior Red Cross Gift Program and returned them to the local Red Cross chapter office, Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary, reported yesterday.

Also participating in the program for the first time this year was the Junior Young People's Fellowship of Emmanuel Episcopal Church. Members of this group filled 50 boxes, using money taken in at its Friday night dances to purchase the gift items.

The gift box program is a Red Cross activity in which small colorful boxes, purchased through the Red Cross Children's Fund, are sent to elementary public and parochial schools. The students fill the boxes with small personal items such as toothpaste, combs, pencils, handkerchiefs, socks and in some cases, small toys.

The boxes are returned to the local chapter, where they are packed and shipped to the area headquarters in Alexandria, Va. The packages are held there until needed in a disaster area, when they are distributed to children in these areas.

Each elementary student brings a gift to place in the box. High school students do not fill boxes but contribute cash toward a Junior Red Cross Fund for relief of children in disaster areas.

Eleven county high schools participated in the fund program, contributing a total of $224.19. Fort Hill's contribution of $70 was the highest.

Elementary school children also contributed $403.47 to the Red Cross fund.

Pennsylvania Avenue School filled the most boxes, 33, and contributed the most cash in the elementary school program.

Navy Awards ABL Contract For $9,600,900

Solid Propellants Research Involved

Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth yesterday notified both U.S. Senators from Maryland and Rep. Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland's Sixth Congressional District that the Bureau of Naval Weapons is awarding the Hercules Powder Company of Wilmington, Del., a new $9,600,900 contract.

This contract is being awarded to Hercules for continued research and development effort on solid propellants for Polaris. The contract will be performed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory near here.

Senators John Marshall Butler and J. Glenn Beall and Rep. Mathias were notified that this is an amendment to an existing contract.

On December 7, Senator Beall announced that he had been notified that Hercules had been awarded a $4,493,000 contract for research and development on solid propellants to be performed at ABL.

An ABL spokesman last night said that the contract allows a continuation of a program already in operation and is not an expansion.

Polaris is a fleet ballistic missile system designed to launch nuclear warheads from submerged submarines toward targets about 1,600 miles away. Much of the research and development on the Polaris project has been done at ABL.

Boy Scout Executive To Resign

Charles W. Newman, who has served as a district scout executive for Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, for the past three years, has submitted his resignation to the local council.

The announcement of Mr. Newman's resignation was made last night by Henry H. Lowery, council president, and Willis V. Smith, scout executive for the council.

The two council officials said Mr. Newman will end his service with the council on January 31 and no successor has been named.

It was reported Mr. Newman, who resides in Frostburg, plans to accept employment locally, but the exact nature of his new position will not be announced until a later date.

Mr. Newman came to Potomac Council in September 1958 after completing training at the National Training School for Scout Executives at Mendham, N. J.

Prior to becoming a district scout official, Mr. Newman was a volunteer in scout work in the Pittsburgh area.

Mr. Newman was in charge of scout work for Nemacolin Trail District and Deep Creek District which covers Allegany and Garrett counties.

Mr. Smith said the two districts enjoyed a large increase in membership and an expansion of the scouting program under Mr. Newman.

Hazelwood Bid On Gephart School Is Low

$163,735 Offered On New Addition

An apparent low bid of $163,735 was submitted yesterday by the George F. Hazelwood Company for construction of an addition to the Gephart Elementary School on Frederick Street.

The Hazelwood price was just $565 less than the $164,300 offer of the George Construction Company. The John I. Vandegrift Company, which had submitted the low bid December 5 when all three proposals were rejected, was high yesterday at $167,700.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster, who opened the bids yesterday, had recommended rejection of the bids December 5 because the lowest proposal was some $14,000 more than the County Board of Education had estimated spending on the Gephart addition.

The specifications were revised after the December bid rejection and the plans were simplified in some respects without making any changes in the number of rooms in the addition.

Mr. Webster said later yesterday that he is recommending acceptance of the low Hazelwood bid and has written the five members of the County Board of Education asking them to express their views.

Hazelwood had lopped $35,905 off its earlier high bid of $199,640. The George bid yesterday was $22,645 lower than in December. The Vandegrift price was $14,094 below the $181,794 low figure of December 5.

Four alternates were submitted with the bids. Three of them involved changes in acoustical features and the fourth a variation in the wall construction.

The Gephart addition includes construction of three classrooms, division of the present auditorium into two classrooms, a new principal's office, a health room and a general purpose room.

West Virginia Legislature To Stay Busy

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The large number of items Gov. W. W. Barron wants the legislature to consider this year will force a departure from custom when the lawmakers convene next Wednesday.

Normally, during an even-year 30-day budget session, the legislature considers the budget bill on opening day and adjourns until the following week. But in his call last weekend, Barron listed 30 matters he wants the legislature to study. Many of them, such as the coal pipeline proposal, are controversial.

The legislative leaders—Senate President Howard W. Carson, D-Fayette, and House Speaker Julius W. Singleton Jr., D-Monongalia—reported that a large packet of bills will be introduced and referred to committees on opening day. They expect to schedule sessions the remainder of the first week.

One proposal to be studied would grant land condemnation rights to companies wishing to build coal-carrying pipelines in West Virginia. The battle lines already are shaping up with railroad management and labor on one side and the coal industry on the other.

Singleton said an effort will be made next Wednesday to sidetrack consideration of the pipeline bill by asking for an interim committee study until the 1963 legislative session. He has been informed that Del. Ted H. Rollins, D-Taylor, will introduce such a resolution.

County Students Assist Jr. Red Cross Program

Students of 33 Allegany County public and parochial elementary schools filled 462 boxes for the American Junior Red Cross Gift Program and returned them to the local Red Cross chapter office, Mrs. Sara Lindsay, executive secretary, reported yesterday.

Also participating in the program for the first time this year was the Junior Young People's Fellowship of Emmanuel Episcopal Church. Members of this group filled 50 boxes, using money taken in at its Friday night dances to purchase the gift items.

The gift box program is a Red Cross activity in which small colorful boxes, purchased through the Red Cross Children's Fund, are sent to elementary public and parochial schools. The students fill the boxes with small personal items such as toothpaste, combs, pencils, handkerchiefs, socks and in some cases, small toys.

The boxes are returned to the local chapter, where they are packed and shipped to the area headquarters in Alexandria, Va. The packages are held there until needed in a disaster area, when they are distributed to children in these areas.

Each elementary student brings a gift to place in the box. High school students do not fill boxes but contribute cash toward a Junior Red Cross Fund for relief of children in disaster areas.

Eleven county high schools participated in the fund program, contributing a total of $224.19. Fort Hill's contribution of $70 was the highest.

Elementary school children also contributed $403.47 to the Red Cross fund.

Pennsylvania Avenue School filled the most boxes, 33, and contributed the most cash in the elementary school program.
